

Eloise flooding leaves trail of death, destruction in Pa.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Raging floodwaters on the Susquehanna River caused by Hurricane Eloise receded Sunday, leaving behind death and destruction estimated at $150 million in one of the worst floods in Pennsylvania's history.

At least six persons lost their lives.

"The people's spirit is amazing. They've been through many floods and they are already fighting to get back in business," said Muncy Police Chief John Oberdorf, whose small town was one of the hardest hit by the muddy Susquehanna River.

"I don't think it's going to be nearly as bad as we anticipated," said Kirk Wilson, a Civil Defense official in Cumberland County. "It's definitely not good, but it's not as bad as everyone had feared."

Most of the estimated 26,000 persons who had to flee in the 27,500 square mile Susquehanna

River basin began to return to their homes Sunday.

President Ford declared 30 counties in a central corridor along the Susquehanna a major disaster area, clearing the way for millions of dollars in aid to homeowners, farmers and communities that lost property in the flood.

State and federal officials said a system of dikes and levees built along the Susquehanna River after Tropical Storm Agnes in 1972 saved many communities from more extensive damage. That storm caused nearly 50 deaths and resulted in $3 billion in damage.

"The damages are going to be well in excess of $150 million," said a spokesman at Civil Defense headquarters.

"The Agriculture Department alone estimates $55 million in damages to crops and farmland."

The flood also knocked out 13 water supply plants and 16 sewage treatment plants, prompting officials in dozens of small towns to warn people to boil drinking water.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp called up 3,300 National Guardsmen to aid in evacuations.

In two of the flood-related deaths, an 83-year-old woman was killed in York County when she was trapped in her car by rising flood waters, and a 21-month-old boy died when he was swept down a stream in Franklin County.

The hardest hit areas included:

—Shickshinny, Harding, West Pittston, and Plainsville, all small towns near Wilkes-Barre on the north branch of the Susquehanna. "They were the areas not protected by dikes," said Frank Townsend, head of Luzerne County Civil Defense. About 2,000 people moved out of their homes at the peak of the flooding.

—Parts of New Cumberland in Cumberland County, just above where the Yellow Breeches Creek enters the Susquehanna River. "We had a seven or eight square block area that was flooded," said a Civil Defense spokesman.

—Dauphin County, Duncannon in Perry County, Adams, York and Franklin Counties in Central Pennsylvania and Tioga County in the northern part of the state. Numerous rain-swollen small streams flooded highways and damaged water treatment plants.

—Milton, Muncy, Lewisburg and Selinsgrove, where substantial areas were flooded. Officials in Muncy estimated damages could exceed $2 million.

$45 million extortion plot against oil firms foiled

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The FBI announced Sunday that three homemade bombs had been recovered from area gasoline stations in an alleged plot to extort $45.5 million from seven of the nation's major oil companies.

The FBI said the pipe bombs,

OPEC defends price hike

VIENNA (UPI) — The world's major oil exporters said Sunday their decision to raise oil prices by 10 per cent was a gesture of good will designed to smooth the way to an international energy conference with consumer nations.

Leaders of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries rejected criticism of the price increase, decided at a stormy four-day conference here that ended Saturday. They called the increase justified and moderate.

The increase will raise the world oil bill by $10 billion a year and the cost of American oil imports by $2.5 billion. The OPEC benchmark price of $10.46 a barrel for Saudi Arabian light crude will rise to $11.51.

U.S. Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb called the increase "outrageous." President Ford said it would worsen inflation.

"The 10 per cent price increase was intended as a friendly gesture to the industrialized nations," said Chief Meshach O. Feyide of Nigeria, secretary general of the 13-nation oil cartel. "It will aid the dialogue with consuming countries."

"We acted very reasonably by holding the increase down to only 10 per cent," said Iranian Oil Minister Jamshid Amouzegar. "A 25 per cent increase would have been justified in view of the inflation in the industrialized nations. We were very reasonable and therefore are going into the dialogue with the consumers with good feelings."

Statements by Feyide, Amouzegar and other OPEC leaders indicated OPEC's interest in the international conference on oil and other raw materials that France is trying to arrange.

French government sources said it now is virtually certain a preliminary, preparatory conference will be held in Paris Oct. 13.

Tiny Indian tribe goes from rags to riches

WENDOVER, Utah (UI) — The Goshute Indians were one of the poorest tribes in the United States—until the past weekend.

Members of the tiny tribe voted Saturday to accept a $7.1 million offer to settle a 100-year-old land dispute with the federal government involving about five million acres in Utah and Nevada.

"But we're not going to go out and buy a bunch of shiny new Cadillacs," said tribal coordinator Robert Steele. "The money will be used to help our people."

The funds could be divided among the tribal members, at about $24,000 each. But Steele added this is highly unlikely. He said much of the money will probably be used to establish a tribal housing authority, and some will be used to set up businesses.

which would have been detonated when acid ate through a nail, were recovered Saturday night from the underground gasoline tanks of Gulf, Exxon and Amoco stations in the area.

Agents would not say how they were tipped off to the location of the bombs.

On Saturday, the bureau announced in Washington that Paul Douglass Methven of Virginia Beach and Larry Shaffer of Chicago had been arrested in connection with the alleged extortion plot. The FBI said the two were responsible for setting two bombs that exploded at a Phillips service station and at the Pierce Oil Co., both in Chamblee, Ga., Sept. 11. The bombs caused little damage.

The bureau said the two also planted a bomb which exploded at another facility in Carteret, N.J., Sept. 9.

The FBI said seven bombs, including the three here, have now been located. However, the bureau said there could be bombs planted at other oil company facilities and service stations around the country.

An FBI agent said the bombs had probably been dropped into the tanks at night.

Bomb squads worked with engineers of the oil firms to locate the bombs. In two cases, the devices were removed without draining the huge tanks.

"We had a highly volatile situation there," said special FBI agent in charge Vincent E. Ruehl.

Robert J. Clark, a member of the deactivation team, said, "We were all nervous. But we didn't think about the danger once we got started. We got wrapped up in the job."

The team worked throughout the night and defused the last bomb about 5 a.m. Sunday at an abandoned racetrack.

Agent Jesse R. Hagy, who supervised the local investigation, would not comment when asked if others were suspected in the extortion attempt. But a spokesman said no other arrests were expected here.

"This matter is still under investigation," he said.

An expert said that the deactivation of the homemade bombs averted a possible tragedy. He explained that an explosion, because of the gasoline, fumes, and city gas mains present, could have demolished a city block.

COOLBAUGH HOMESTEAD — The Willows, as it used to be before two-story white pillars were added to the Coolbaugh homestead on Rte. 209 at the entrance to Lake in the Pines, is shown in this copy of an 1880 painting by Margaret Coolbaugh Brodhead, who was born in the house. The brick portion at the right was built in about 1820, beyond which can be seen the cookhouse and washhouse, while the addition at the left grew to fit John Van Campen Coolbaugh's family of 11 children.

Former homestead had mysterious air

Coolbaughs believed in work ethic

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles by Bobby Westbrook on some of the historical places in the area, the people who built them and how the years have changed them in a countdown through 1975 toward the Bicentennial year of 1976.)

By BOBBY WESTBROOK

ECHO LAKE — "Three generations from shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves" Andrew Carnegie is supposed to have said about the course of family fortunes in America.

The solid virtues of the Coolbaugh family of Middle Smithfield lasted much longer than that, perhaps because, in spite of prosperity and large land holdings, they never allowed themselves to grow too far from shirtsleeve work.

The house which John Van Campen Coolbaugh started building in 1820 kept growing bigger to house his family of 11 children but maintained the even tenor of its ways for almost 100 years until it passed out of the possession of the family.

After that it passed through a hectic cycle of its own. Somewhere along the line a later owner added the impressive white pillars and the two-story porch which give it the look of a Southern mansion which it still retains.

But the changes which went on inside were even more drastic. At first it was the home of one of the areas leading carpenters and cabinet makers, John S. Ballard and his wife, Sadie, after 1910.

Perhaps it was he who made the outside structural changes. It was definitely the next owner who added a pavilion at the side, later torn down.

Julia Stevenson of New York City who bought the property in 1917, changed its name from "The Willows" to "The Joan of Arc" with the idea of making it into an elegant restaurant with French cuisine.

Perhaps the cuisine wasn't good enough or perhaps it was just ahead of its time because it never seemed popular. By 1925, she had given up and moved to Florida and the property was sold once again.

It became even more quiet and mysteriously withdrawn from community life and rumors had it that it had become a hideout for Prohibition era gangsters. Neighbors' children believed other rumors they overheard that it was a rest home for prostitutes from a nearby city.

If walls could talk there must have been a lot of scandalized whispering even if neither rumor was true since the very fact of withdrawal after so many years of being the center of community life was drastic change enough.

In the kitchen of the house the congregation of the first Presbyterian Church to be organized in this county often used to meet between 1814 and 1832 when the present Middle Smithfield Church was built.

Those walls might also have breathed a sigh of relief when the cycle was completed and the building was acquired by a Baptist Church group at the same time they bought Werre's Sunnybrook Resort at whose entrance, now Lake in the Pines development, it stands.

Most of the life of the old homestead along the old stage road to Bushkill is bound to the history of John V. Coolbaugh and his family and their lasting impact on the community. It is this that gives the house its historic significance.

It is not the oldest house in the township. In fact, John V. Van Campen was born in a much older one, built by his father, also John Coolbaugh, shortly after the Revolutionary War — a 20 room mansion which will be the subject of a later feature.

AFTER THE FLOOD — John Haynes of Muncy, Pa., starts the major task of cleaning up his service station following heavy flooding in the area from rains all last week. Flood waters forced about 25 per cent of the community to vacate their homes. Officials in Muncy estimated damages could exceed $2 million. (UPI)

Farm union head claims country has milk shortage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States already has a milk shortage and consumers will face a "nutritional disaster" unless Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz moves swiftly to raise dairy price supports by some 12 cents a gallon, a farm leader charged Sunday.

Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, urged Butz in a letter to raise the government support price for manufacturing grade milk to the legal ceiling of 90 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity price.

Milk production this year is estimated at about 115 billion pounds, the lowest since 1952, and this shortage is being masked temporarily by a drop in demand caused by heavy unemployment, he said.

Dechant said that in past years, declines in milk production had been absorbed by cutting use of milk for livestock and poultry feed and in foreign aid. Now, he said, virtually no more savings can be made that way.

"But the 40 year downward trend in numbers of dairy farmers and dairy cows goes on, rushing us swiftly down the track toward nutritional disaster," Dechant said.

When general economic conditions improve, he predicted, milk production will drop even further as distressed dairymen turn to more profitable jobs at the same time consumer demand for milk increases.

Manufacturing milk is used to make butter, cheese, and other processed products.

Lawmaker blame agencies

Red tape ties up spy effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Select Committee on Intelligence, said Sunday the intelligence community is so bogged down in red tape that the United States might get no advance warning of an impending attack.

The American taxpayer is being cheated because he is not "getting his money's worth" from the intelligence agencies, Pike charged.

He blamed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for the deadlock between his committee and the White House over congressional access to secret documents and interrogation of lower-level officials about foreign policy decisions.

The committee meets today to decide whether to ask the House for support in efforts to obtain classified documents and testimony it seeks.

Pike said the procedure would be a first step toward obtaining a contempt of Congress resolution if the administration continues to block the committee's activities.

Pike was asked in a television interview (CBS-TV's Face the Nation) for an overall assessment of this country's intelligence agencies, and said:

"I think that there are thousands of dedicated men risking their lives to get intelligence. I think that there are other thousands of brilliant men creating magnificent scientific techniques for getting intelligence."

"Above the gathering level, however, it just bogs down every single time. It is not absorbed, it is not delivered. As far as our getting our money's worth out of it — no way are we getting our money's worth out of it."

Pike said, "if an attack were to be launched on America in the very near future, it is my belief that America would not know that the attack were about to be launched."

What's news

Hurricanes fade out

MIAMI — Hurricane Faye headed into the open north Atlantic Ocean away from land Sunday and Hurricane Gladys, in Atlantic waters far to the south, showed signs of weakening. Advisories from the National Hurricane Center said Faye, packing winds of 85 miles an hour, was "no longer a threat to land areas in North America." The weakening Gladys, barely sustaining hurricane-force winds of 75 m.p.h. at midday, will likely to be downgraded to a tropical storm, the center said.

Hoffa grave search called off

PONTIAC, Mich. — State Police searches halted a yard-by-yard hunt near this Detroit suburb Sunday for a six-foot grave which, according to a tip given to U.S. Senate investigators, holds the body of missing former Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa. "I don't think this is the area," said Vincent Piersante of the State Police intelligence agency. But he said it is possible the tipster was wrong only on the precise location and the search continued over a broader area. "We may find it (the grave) within six miles of here," Piersante said. State Police spent most of Saturday combing a 29-acre rural area of woods and swamp in Waterford Township about 35 miles northwest of Detroit.

Shipjacks want safe-conduct

MANILA, Philippines — Moslem rebels, surrounded by a flotilla of Filipino navy ships, Sunday dropped demands for a $133,000 ransom in exchange for a hijacked Japanese freighter and 29 hostages and asked for a safe-conduct instead. The Philippines accepted, but release of the hostages was delayed while 11th hour hitches were ironed out. The rebels demanded the provision of more getaway boats to supplement the small boats already on the freighter and insisted on the withdrawal of a flotilla of 10 navy ships surrounding the vessel hijacked Friday while loading lumber.

Erotic art museum closes doors

SAN FRANCISCO — Financial woes are driving the International Museum of Erotic Art and its sponsor, Genesis Church and Ecumenical Center, out of their building here. The institution will close its doors Sept. 30. Rising costs of maintenance, space, insurance and taxes have been cited as the reasons for the decision by the board of directors of Genesis to close one of the world's largest displays of sex through the ages. "It's real shame that this has to happen when we are finally accepted as part of the community," said Janice Epp, museum manager. She said more than 150,000 people have viewed the multi-cultural exhibits since the opening of the museum in March, 1973, in downtown San Francisco. "There is no other museum like this in the world."

Astronaut gets uppity

VOLOGRAD, USSR — Five American and Soviet spacemen who linked up in earth orbit last July are getting so mobbed wherever they stop on a goodwill tour of the Soviet Union that one of the Americans complained about it Sunday. Astronaut Donald K. Slayton said, "I will sign an autograph for anybody who wants one, but only under controlled conditions. It has now become a physical impossibility." Crowds up to 3,000 waited on street corners and at airports for up to four hours to cheer the three U.S. astronauts and two Russian cosmonauts. "The hospitality is fantastic," said Maj. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, commander of the Apollo craft which rendezvoused in space with a Soviet Soyuz.

10 British soldiers die in training

NEWARK ON TRENT, England — Ten British part-time paratroopers on a practice amphibious night assault drowned early Sunday in the rushing torrent of a rain swollen river that swept their small aluminum boat over a levee. Electricity workers carrying out emergency repairs on a cable near the Trent River heard shouts for help in the darkness and managed to rescue an 11th soldier. Rescue workers were battered by gale force winds. Six bodies were recovered, but first attempts to recover the bodies of the other four victims by helicopter and with grappling irons failed.

Lebanese cease-fire shaky

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Authorities moved gendarme reinforcements into Beirut Sunday to beef up security forces patrolling the shaky cease-fire between warring Christian, and Moslem political party militiamen still trading sporadic gunfire in parts of the capital. The casualty toll from nine days of urban warfare between the right-wing Christians and left-wing Moslems rose to at least 326 dead and more than 600 wounded. Scattered explosions and sniper fire kept the battered streets of the capital deserted Sunday but the week-old cease-fire held without serious violation. Premier Rashid Karami said "extraordinary measures" had been taken to enforce the truce. He expressed hope that the capital, many parts of which were still without water or electricity, would begin returning to normal by today.

Execution of guerrillas protested

MADRID (UPI) — Spanish police Sunday opened fire on hundreds of Basque demonstrators and wounded six of them. The incident was part of growing protests against the execution of five guerrillas which also strained Spain's relations with several European countries.

The national news agency Cifra said the shooting occurred at Algorta, an industrial suburb of the Basque city of Bilbao, as protests against Saturday's executions began to stir in Spain.

Cifra said the Algorta demonstrators refused to obey orders by the para-military Guardia Civil to disband and the police opened fire.

The six persons hit by bullets were hospitalized, but Cifra did not say how seriously they were wounded. The news agency also said an unknown number of persons were arrested.

Cifra said the demonstrators numbered about 300 and shouted "subversive" slogans. Witnesses estimated the number of protesters at 2,000 and said they marched behind a Basque flag, whose public display is banned in Spain.

First John Coolbaugh settled in Middle Smithfield

The first John Coolbaugh, a native of New Jersey, was a soldier in the Revolutionary War and saw action at the Battle of Monmouth. After the war he came up to settle in Middle Smithfield, his first home a log cabin in the area of what is now Blue Mountain Camp. On Sept. 14, 1788, he married

Susannah Van Campen whose roots were already deep in this section. She was the daughter of John Van Campen and Sarah DePui Van Campen, a granddaughter of Col. Abram Van Campen of Pahaquarry, N.J., and great granddaughter of Nicholas DePui of Shawnee. Among their ten children was John Van Campen Coolbaugh, born in 1796 in his father's homestead. After John V's marriage to Mary Eyllenberger of Hollow Road, Middle Smithfield, he built his own home on a section of his father's extensive property, on the old stage road about three miles below Bushkill where it still stands.

Matthew's history records of John Van Campen Coolbaugh that he "inherited many of the characteristics of his father. He was an elder in the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Church and was one of the most successful and prosperous of farmers. He avoided public office but devoted himself to the welfare of his neighbors and of the congregation".

Certainly he and his father shared an interest in the Presbyterian Church which had its first beginnings, not in Stroudsburg but in Middle Smithfield where it was organized in 1814.

His granddaughter, Myra Van Allen Ammerman, in her history of the church points out that until the church was built in 1832, the meetings were held either in the barn of her great-grandfather, John Coolbaugh, still standing even if barely, or in the kitchen of her grandfather's home.

John V. gave the land for the church and also furnished the lumber from the family tract in the wilderness, now the Resica Scout Reservation.

Six generations are already buried in the cemetery of the church. But there was nothing moribund about the Coolbaughs then. In addition to his commitment to his church, John also had a commitment to the cause of freedom for the slaves.

Before the Civil War when the Fugitive Slave act was hot in pursuit of the runaway slaves, John V. Coolbaugh's home was a part of the Underground Railroad. Slaves fleeing North were hidden at the rear of the house in a tunnel which entered into the hillside.

The abolitionist cause was not a popular one in Middle Smithfield. In the predominately Democratic, anti-Lincoln community, partisans used to go by yelling "Black Republicans" as they passed the house.

The 11 Coolbaugh children apparently thrived in a household of high principles and good works. Margaret became the second wife of Luke Brodhead, proprietor of the prestigious Delaware Water Gap House. It was she who painted the picture of her father's house shown with this article. Elizabeth became the wife of Charles Peters who founded the Peters House in Bushkill. Van Campen Coolbaugh moved to Middletown, N.Y., where he had the company of his sister, Susan, who married Daniel Peters of Middletown.

Moses Coolbaugh became a resident of Pittston, and Abram V. moved to Stroudsburg. Sarah married Darwin Martin of Bradford Co.

It was Andrew Jackson Coolbaugh who followed his father at the homestead, called "The Willows", where his sister, Cornelia, also made her home. James Coolbaugh died in 1885.

Mary Emma Coolbaugh, the youngest married the young minister who came to board at their home. It is through her that history moves from the history books to the personal anecdotes as recalled by Mary Emma's granddaughter, Adelaide Ammerman Strunk, who as postmaster at Echo Lake for 45 years until her retirement in 1964, also played a personal part in the history of the area.

Wallace to testify about Secret Service protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress wants to determine if Secret Service protection of President Ford and other presidential candidates is sufficient and it turns this week to one who should know — Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

The 1972 presidential contender, left paralyzed from the waist down by a would-be assassin's bullet, will testify either in person or by statement Tuesday when Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., and his Senate Appropriations subcommittee open a congressional inquiry into the protective services.

Wallace had Secret Service protection when he was shot in a shopping center campaign appearance at Laurel, Md., three years ago. Joining Wallace in the hearings this week will be Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who was the GOP presidential nominee in 1964. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and his Select Committee on Intelligence this week continue their inquiry into the Central Intelligence Agency and particularly its practice of opening the mail of top government officials, while the House Select Committee on Intelligence headed for a new confrontation with Ford on releasing classified data.

The House panel failed to compromise the issue during face-to-face meetings with Ford last week. Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., the panel chairman, has hinted at possible contempt of Congress citations against administration figures to force release of secret documents in its probe of the CIA.

The CIA also figures in House floor action this week when the $112 billion defense appropriations measure comes up for debate.

Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., will attempt to make public the level of funding for the CIA in the new fiscal year. He was rebuffed in that effort last week in the appropriations committee.

The defense measure is nearly $9 billion lower than the administration asked, and efforts will be made to slice it still more by deleting $132.7 million for the F-18 fighter plane program.

Sara Jane Moore placed in isolation

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Sara Jane Moore, accused of firing a gun at President Ford six days ago, was placed in isolation Sunday at the Metropolitan Correctional Center where she will be kept away from other inmates during two months of psychiatric studies.

The 45-year-old housewife was booked into the plush 12-story federal institution Saturday afternoon after a nine-hour automobile trip from the San Francisco Hall of Justice jail.

The means of transportation had been kept secret and instead of traveling by airplane, U.S. Marshals whisked Miss Moore from the jail at dawn in a caravan of three unmarked police cars that traveled the 531-mile coastal route.

The caravan eluded newsmen in downtown San Diego by using an underground tunnel entrance to the prison.

After her arrival, Warden John D. Williams abruptly changed originally plans that would have allowed Miss Moore to mingle freely with 47 inmates on the ninth floor of the facility, and instead announced she would be housed on the third floor hospital level. Plans also were canceled for her to share a communal dining area and watch color television in an open viewing room shared by other female inmates.

"She was accompanied by a court order which requires stringent restrictions of all communications with her," Williams said in a statement.

Boys held for killing 5-year-old

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Authorities Sunday said three boys had been arrested for investigation in the kidnap-murder of a 5-year-old girl who disappeared from her home Friday.

The suspects, two 16 and the other 17, were not identified. They were arrested early Saturday for investigation of first-degree kidnaping and homicide and were being held without bond in the El Paso County Jail.

Police Lt. Victor Morris said the arrests occurred when the suspects showed up at a ransom drop site on the Valley Hi Golf Course. About 30 FBI agents, police officers and sheriff's deputies had the site surrounded.

West End wanderings

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter

BRODHEADSVILLE — Have you ever attended the big annual Rural Life Day festival in the West End? If you have, the chances are that you are in your 70's, because the event hasn't been held officially in more than 54 years.

There are some oldtimers who claim the event is still being held annually in Gilbert, but today the festival goes under a different name — the West End Fair.

We're told that the fair was originally started as an event called Rural Life Day. At the time representatives from Tunkhannock Township, were also included on the fair's board of directors. As farms died out in that township, interest dropped off in the fair until today Tunkhannock sends no representatives to fair association meetings.

The final count is in from the West End Junior Women's Club. The girls sold 450 cups of soup, 800 dishes of homemade strawberry shortcake and 600 roast beef sandwiches during the West End Fair. The women baked up a storm to produce the 60 shortcakes used during the week, but the effort produced $1,311.64 for the club.

When Viola Leamy of Saylor's Lake first moved to the country as a little girl, she was in love with every cat she saw. One day she brought home the most beautiful black and white kitty she found along the road and couldn't figure out why her mother suddenly started yelling. "That's not a cat, that's not a cat." She found out soon enough when the skunk sprayed both Viola and her mother's kitchen.

Senior citizens throughout the West End who belong to the Fairview Club are looking forward to the upcoming Halloween party at the West End firehouse on Oct. 22 and many have already begun to work on elaborate costumes for the festivities. Prizes will be given away for the prettiest, most original and ugliest costume as well as in other categories. There's a pumpkin pie eating contest on tap and residents will be playing a unique game of using their knees to pass a balloon from one to the other. That should set everybody to chuckling, especially with the members of the Fairview Senior Citizen's Club in costume.

No club meetings will be held the day before Thanksgiving or the day before Christmas, but the club is planning an old-fashioned sleighride to Greenview Farm for dinner when a good blanket of snow comes down.

If you're under senior citizen age, you're still welcomed to join the local Fairview Club as a social member and participate in all the social activities. If you don't have transportation to the meetings and events, it will be provided by club members.

We're hearing a rumor that the football coaches at Stroudsburg High School are sad that Royal Crest Farm has held its last horse show of the season. You may not see the connection, but some of the star players in last week's game, worked as the ring crew at the show Friday night and Saturday morning, and evidently, the workout was just the right warm-up exercise to make Stroudsburg come out a winner that Saturday night.

Ron McCuen, Mike Rath, Bob Tilwick, Andy Pathenroth, and Micky Carey all represented the Stroudsburg team, in addition to other ring crew members Tim Jones, Kevin Haffler, Gary Posten, Mark Shoemaker, Steve Hay, Dave Shaffer and Tyrone Posten. Jeff Miller was the ring crew director and George Miller was the hunt crew director.

The Chestnuthill Township supervisors have that burning ordinance up for adoption at a special meeting scheduled for Oct. 1 at the municipal building on Rte. 715. All fires, according to the proposal, will have to be attended at all times or be burned in a special burning barrel with an appropriate cover. You could be sentenced to a fine of between $25 and $300 if you do not obey the new code when leaf burning time rolls around. If passed, the ordinance will take effect in five days.

Kirkridge is sponsoring a special program called "A Responsible Patriotism," at 6 p.m., Oct. 15 and at 4 p.m., Oct. 16. John B. Anderson, a congressman from Illinois and author of "Vision and Betrayal in America," and William Sloane Coffin, Jr., a Yale chaplain, will speak. To register, send $40 to Kirkridge by Oct. 1. The fee for the two-day program is $65 for overnight accommodations and $50 without.

If you've planted sunflowers to get some seeds to carry your neighborhood birds through the winter, you may be wondering just what is the right time to harvest the seeds. According to Monroe County Extension Agent John Withrow, the time to pick the flower is when the seed is ripe enough to shatter from the heads. This occurs when the back of the seed of the heads is brown and drying. You'd better chop off the heads early, however, or the birds and local mice or rats will take care of that harvesting for you. You can hang the heads of the stalk in a shed to dry further and if you don't have many to hang, Withrow suggests putting a brown grocery bag under the head to collect any seeds that may fall out.

How many readers remember the good old days when you saved coupons from the Great A and P Tea Company just to be able to buy a new handle for the iron that was heated on top of the wood stove? Now few housewives even use irons!

And you say you're having trouble keeping up with all those activities that are going on with the senior citizens? The Office of the Aging has donated two bulletin boards to post activities for West End residents. They will be erected at the West End firehouse and at West End Carpet in Brodheadsville. The next big activity is the public Card party, set for 1 p.m., Oct. 2 at the West End firehouse. The public, regardless of age, is welcomed to come out to the combination card party-bingo game. The fee is $1, which will include free refreshments. We understand that scads of beautiful prizes have been pouring in as donations from all West End businesses for the affair. so it's something you won't want to miss.

According to Attorney Charles Smith, a stockholder himself, who is representing the Weir Lake Development Company in Gilbert, lots there on lease arrangements will be presented to the Chestnuthill Township Planning Commission to be sold. At a preliminary presentation this month, the planners said they didn't feel they could approve the plan as such, but said they would agree to a sale of lots to present lease holders. It is expected that Smith will submit a comprehensive plan which will show who is now leasing lots at the lake at the planners' October meeting.

And hold on to your hats — it looks as if the fees in the Chestnuthill Subdivision ordinance may be up for amendment again. We'll keep you posted on the proposed changes.

Pike PARC plans program report

Pike County Bureau

MILFORD — After a two month recess, the Pike County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Citizens (PARC) will report on three programs at 7:30 p.m. to night — a day-care center for retarded adults, a school district learning disabilities program and youth recreational activities.

Marion Almqvist of PARC's Right to Education Committee said the committee will meet at 6:30 p.m., an hour before the public meeting, to discuss the Delaware Valley School District's new program for learning disabled children.

Mrs. Almqvist said the committee will "be looking to see if children diagnosed with learning disabilities are receiving proper instruction."

"We want to look at the program from an organizational standpoint to make sure children are being served," Mrs. Almqvist said.

The committee expects to receive a formal outline of the district's programs, according to Mrs. Almqvist, and will also depend on parent's evaluations of the program at PARC meetings.

Dennis McCann, chairman of a PARC committee establishing a day-care center for retarded adults, said the center will open as soon as the owners of the building on 107 East Ann

St. obtain a variance from the borough.

McCann said there has been a delay in applying for the variance because the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kayton, have been away on vacation.

PARC plans to lease the first floor of the Kayton building for a year by using a $31,000 grant from the Tri-County Mental Health and Mental Retardation (MHMR) program.

The grant will also cover salaries for two special education teachers and renovation costs.

The day-care program will teach about five retarded adults basic skills, arts and crafts and homemaking skills. Mrs. Peggy Lyons, a special education teacher, has already been hired as one of two certified instructors. The facility will also be manned by volunteers.

Although some residents have raised questions concerning parking problems at the day-care center, McCann said most of the adults will be transported to the center by a small van or bus.

"I don't think there will be any parking problems or noise factor," McCann said.

Even though the building is located in a residential area, McCann noted that a variance had been issued about 10 years ago to use the building as a law office.

The final item on PARC's agenda will be a report from the recreation committee on an activity program for youth.

William Attick, a committee member, said he would "be happy to see the program started with 10 youths."

Local teachers, students and women from two area community clubs will supervise the program, according to Attick.

Any parents who would like their child to participate in the recreational program should contact Attick or Mrs. Kathryn Vinnie, Delaware Valley School District psychologist.

Depot boosts purchases to $21.8 million in 1975

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna Army Depot has boosted its purchase of support and upkeep items by nearly 30 per cent in fiscal year 1975, reaching a record high of $21.8 million.

"This is by far the best year, dollar-wise, that has ever been experienced," reported Frank A. Mirabelle, chief of the Directorate for Services' Purchasing and Contract Division. "The previous high had been last year's $16.8 million."

Over 19,200 contracts were made. Small businesses captured 52.6 per cent of those contracts controlled exclusively by the depot.

Mirabelle estimated that some $2.4 million was spent with "well over 100 local firms" in an area generally bounded by Scranton and Wilkes-Barre in the north and west, and Allentown in the south.

"There has been a concerted effort by purchasing personnel to divert as many awards as possible to small business firms," he added.

Small Business Advisor Joseph J. Perry pointed out that, since 1953, the government's policy has been to place as fair a portion of purchases as possible with small concerns.

He invited local firms interested in soliciting business with the depot to call on him, with or without an appointment, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Frank Mirabelle said that new projects with the Satellite Communications Agency and Seneca (N.Y.) Army Depot, along with the normal flow of inflation, helped to produce the record procurement.

However, he cited administrative improvements as other reasons for the increase.

"We've gone a long way in encouraging and educating many firms — local ones in particular — that it isn't so difficult to do business with the government. Over the years, government procurement has been simplified and streamlined to the extent that no longer are myriads of paper or yards of red tape required," he said.

Last December, a procurement seminar drew over 100 small business firms to the depot to learn how it contracts for services and supplies. A second seminar is planned in November.

"As a result of the conference, numerous new contracts were awarded to area firms who had never before dealt with the depot," Perry said.

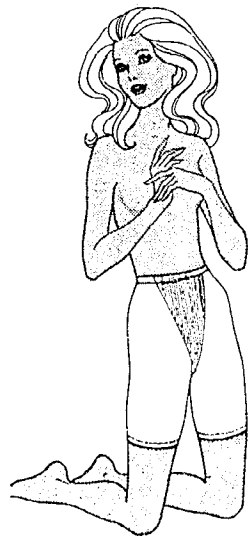

Items purchased vary from soup for the Commissary to nuts for radio sets.

No time for politics

It is seldom enough that governmental employees act solely in the best interests of government and the taxpayer. When one does, why is government so reluctant to accept the proffered assistance?

Monroe County Commission Chairman Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis may be forgiven for hesitating to place an added burden on newly appointed County Treasurer William Coleman. But his offer to set up and run a state-mandated tax claim bureau in the treasurer's office is not one to decline lightly.

Coleman's office is partially set up to handle a tax claim office's business as it is; the treasurer historically handled tax sales. And, while Coleman is new to the job, he has yet to display incompetence and he is solidly backed up by an experienced and efficient staff.

More to the point might be the fact that Coleman is a Democrat, while Mrs. Shukaitis and fellow Commissioner William Quinn are Republicans. Given the traditional patronage system that exists in Pennsylvania, it is not unreasonable to suppose that Mrs. Shukaitis and Quinn might well be reluctant to lose an appointment to a lucrative post.

It may be understandable, but it does no service to the county and its taxpayer to bypass an appointment that will cost county taxpayers nothing for now, and we have Coleman's assurance that future costs will be considerably less under his aegis than if another office is created.

There is a time when political considerations should be forgotten in the interests of sparing taxpayers yet more burdens. As it is, the county faces the necessity of negotiating one long-term $300,000 loan to bail it out of the financial hole, and next January's new board will have to look for yet another $300,000 loan to tide it over the fiscal shoals.

Mrs. Shukaitis' concern for Coleman's workload is specious. She should accept his offer to start up and staff a tax claims bureau when Commissioner Arlington W. Martin so moves this morning. If there's a problem later on, there's plenty time to set up a separate office. Right now, we need a break rather than an expanded bureaucracy.

A busy 50 days

Fifty days may not be nearly enough time in which to hammer out a compromise energy program, if recent past skirmishes between Congress and President Ford are any indication.

Nothing ventured, nothing gained, however. So Congress passed a 50-day extension of oil price controls Friday and the President is all for it.

We're not so sure it's a good idea. Economists of almost every stripe, except for the conservatives, have been moaning that a chaotic round of price increases would attack the economy if oil price controls were allowed to lapse.

There's no way of telling as of now, because oil firms, fearing a resumption of controls would be retroactive, voluntarily eschewed price increases in September. The word was out, though, that some price increases could be expected in October if Congress and the White House remained stalemated.

Reminded so forcefully of its obligation to act in the welfare of the nation and abandon politics over such an important issue, Congress typically rushed into action . . . to delay conclusive action. Terrific.

No doubt the lawmakers also reacted to the possibility of a 10 per cent crude oil price hike by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. OPEC is ready to do just that, to make up for revenue loss because high prices have cut consumption — the inexorable reaction of the marketplace.

The market could well have done the same domestically, but Congress chickened out and now we'll never know, will we?

Still time to contribute America's bicentennial slogan

WASHINGTON — Our search for the official slogan for America's bicentennial will end on Dec. 1. Then, in the American way, the people will determine the winning slogan by national ballot.

Here's how it will work:

As the slogans arrive, they are screened by the American Legion, Jaycees and General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will select the best 200 slogans.

These will be turned over to an executive screening board, consisting of the 55 state and territorial bicentennial chairmen. They will determine the 20 finalists.

On Jan. 18, the finalists will be announced, at the football Superbowl game. For the next month, the general public will be invited to vote for the slogan they think is most fitting. This will become the nation's official bicentennial slogan.

The winner will be invited to take his family on a month-long tour of America, winding up at the White House. American Motors will give him a new station wagon, and Holiday Inns will put the family up each night at the closest available inn. To cover the remaining travel expenses, the Copernicus Society will give the winner $5,000.

There will be additional awards, including cash prizes from the Copernicus Society, for the runnerup slogans. All entries should be mailed to Slogans USA, Box 1976, Washington, D.C.

Jack Anderson
With Les Whitten

The national balloting will be cut off on Feb. 16, and the winners will be announced on the first day of spring, March 21. The Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls have offered to tabulate the votes.

The slogan search has already brought dramatic, overwhelming evidence that Americans love their country and are eager to declare it. One year ago, we wrote:

"In times past, Americans have been able to distill the cause of the hour into a phrase, a rallying cry, a stirring slogan. To recite them is to review our history . . .

"At this time, as we emerge from the Wargate nightmare into the dawn's early light, as we near 200 years under a common flag as a free and progressing people, are there the right words to reaffirm our faith in America?"

Ring down

"The bicentennial has need of a slogan which will capulate the past 200 years and ring down through the next 200 years. Amid all the hopes and conflicts that distract and divide us today, is there a unifying phrase for our bicentennial year?"

"The words ought not to be the forced effort of a political ghost writer but the spontaneous eruption of some grateful citizen, some struggler in the field. We, therefore, invite the citizens of America — the school children, laborers, housewives, veterans — to express their feelings about America in a slogan."

This brought a spontaneous outpouring of slogans from the heart of the nation. Hundreds of thousands of Americans, each in his own words, expressed his feelings about the country.

Dozens of corporations also responded with offers of support. Edward J. Pizek, founder of the Copernicus Society, got to us first with an unsolicited offer to help finance the slogan search. The society also put up thousands of dollars in prizes.

Bill Walton, chairman of Holiday Inns, came to Washington to help plan the campaign. The National Association of Food Chains offered its support. The National Football League, which has its own $25,000 bicentennial essay contest, also got behind the slogan search.

Posters urging people to send in their slogans are being circulated in 50,000 supermarkets, 2,000 F. W. Woolworth stores, 1,800 Hol-day Inns and 1,700 J. C. Penney stores. And 2,800 state and county fairs have been participating.

Derus Media Service offered to promote the slogan search through some 6,000 publications. Lee Furr Studio produced radio spots, which the Mutual radio network and hundreds of independent stations are featuring. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is also playing the spots on its 96-station network.

The promotion campaign is directed by Henry J. Kaufman & Associates, the talented Washington advertising firm, which represents the Advertising Council. Up With People has 500 young people promoting the slogans in song around the country.

Encyclopaedia Britannica will include the slogan campaign in its 1976 yearbook, thus making it part of history. And the American Song Festival will put the winning slogan to music.

Such magazines as Reader's Digest, Jack and Jill, La Luz and the NAACP's Crisis magazine have appealed for slogans. Such celebrities as Howard Cosell, Robert Young and Irv Kupcinet have also given strong support.

Also active in promoting the slogan campaign are the National Association of Broadcasters, National Education Association, American Freedom Train, Boys Clubs of America, Films Incorporated, Gemini Rising, PepsiCo and Phillips 66.

Roscoe Drummond

Washington focus

Wallace Presidential Bid On The Rise. At this point his campaign for the Democratic nomination is better financed, better organized and farther ahead than any of the other candidates.

Many of the Southern governors, who are not themselves supporters of Gov. Wallace, are frankly conceding that Wallace will carry their own states in the upcoming primaries.

This would give him a near sweep of the Southern delegates at stake in primaries and would probably enable him to go to the convention with formidable delegate support.

Gov. Wallace and The Black Vote. He is succeeding to a considerable extent in shedding his racist image. He has done it by actions, not by words. He has appointed blacks to important positions in Alabama; and some of the black leaders, including the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., now an open supporter, believe he would not try to turn the clock back if elected President.

Ronald Reagan Seeking To Change His Image? It would be quite a feat, but that is what his campaign director, John Sears, wants to accomplish.

Sears' political premise is that this year's primaries and next year's election will be a choice between men, not between ideologies. He contends that between Ford and Reagan, Reagan should stress his wider administrative experience and let his attractive personality work for him more than his political ideology.

He is not asking him to change his views but to mute his conservative stance.

Ford's New Strategy On Forced Busing. The President is adding a new dimension to the busing controversy. Realistically, he does not expect the court to reverse recent decisions which have distressed so many parents. But he is aiming to affect future court decisions.

There are 23 cases pending before federal courts today in which forced busing away from neighborhood schools is the issue.

The President is sending a signal to the judges. He is, in effect, pointing out to them that Congress passed legislation which states that "students shall not be transferred to a school other than a school closest or next to closest to their place of residence."

The thrust of what Ford is saying to the courts is: Since I am counseling everyone against defying your decisions, why are you defying an act of Congress?

Women's Colleges Proving Popular. A few years ago all-male and all-female colleges appeared on the way out. Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth, Williams and others started to admit women. Vassar, Bennington, Sarah Lawrence and Skidmore admitted men.

But a number of all-female colleges bucked the tide, and now they count themselves fortunate. Their enrollment is up at a time when many coeducational institutions are having trouble attracting qualified students.

'Of course, we might have to raise our prices to protect ourselves from inflation'

Ford energy program giveaway to economic powers

Nicholas Von Hoffman

WASHINGTON — If President Ford is permitted an infinite amount of time to think up an infinite number of energy programs, it is mathematically possible for him to eventually hit on one that makes sense.

His latest losing ticket is the $100 billion Energy Independence Agency. This stunningly bad idea is based on the New Dealish premise that, if you can't solve a problem with money, at least you can hide it by papering it over with greenbacks. But what is Ford's problem?

He wants the United States to stop buying foreign oil and use domestic fuel produced by exotic, currently commercially unprofitable technologies. Unhappily for him, however, private investors won't put up the money to develop technologies that can be undersold by conventionally pumped oil.

For months Ford has been trying every which way to cheat the law of the marketplace by driving up the price of oil. He has taxed oil and he has decontrolled it, but, even with the cooperation of foreign oil producers who want the price to go up also, slackening demand and abundance of supply have conspired to keep the exotics noncompetitive.

We risk, they profit

So, since he can't rig the market in the exotics' favor, he wants to subsidize them. The government should provide the research and development money to make the new technologies competitive, the taxpayers should assume the risks, and the oil companies and the public utilities will take the patents on the new processes and the profits. This is what the President means when he says his newest program "will not replace the private enterprise system — it will supplement it."

This supplement is to take some objectionable forms. For instance, money will be "lent" to the utility companies to build clusters of power plants in "energy parks." In other words, small-scale technology is junked. No research money to perfect solar power devices to free the individual homeowner from the electric company. There is no reason to think such a direction would cost more, but Ford instinctively chooses to spend public money to centralize the presently overcentralized, privately run, government-protected power industry.

It has been reported that the President was sold this program by Rockefeller. It does bear the telltale signs of Rockefeller-style socialism.

Note that instead of a straight-out, honest subsidy, Ford follows the pattern the Vice President used so often in New York. The government is to issue bonds, thereby letting the banks in for a profit while disguising the debt incurred by the taxpayers. This is called "off-budget borrowing" and it is the most insidious form of deficit spending.

It does have its advantages. If you sneak all your business subsidies through by off-budget borrowing and keep all your welfare expenditures on-budget, you can make it look like it's the poor people who are wrecking public finances. In his years as governor Rockefeller used this form of sharp practice time and time again. It got him around the state constitution's debt limitations, it got him re-elected four times and it got New York sent to the poorhouse.

It's also significant that Ford should make this proposal at a meeting of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department. It was characteristic of Rockefeller to bring these labor unions in as junior partners on these deals. The banks, the contractors, the steel, cement and supply industries were the seniors, but certain preferred unions were brought in to widen the political base.

Old formula, by jingo

Thus in accordance with the old Rockefeller formula, Ford roused the trade unionists by saying, "Let's spend at home for American jobs some of the billions we've been spending abroad for foreign oil and foreign payrolls . . .

In response to those nations which would control our energy supply and prices and hence our future, I say to industry, to construction workers and to all Americans: 'Let's go into business for ourselves. Let's produce American energy in America with American workers.'"

This may seem like strange jingo language for a President who calls people isolationists who don't agree with him. "Uncle Sam isn't 'about to say 'uncle,' " quoth Ford, nicely scrambling foreign policy objectives with energy crisis necessities.

Americanism-energy independence is primarily a political idea. We don't object to being iron ore dependent or banana dependent because that doesn't interfere with our Middle Eastern games. Naturally we don't like to pay higher prices for oil, but that does not bother the government nearly as much as the vulnerability to pressure that reliance on foreign oil creates. But, since the public would never pay hundreds of billions of dollars just to avoid buying oil from Arabs, the administration must confuse the debate by suggesting its "dramatic, crash programs" are the best way to solve the unrelated energy crisis.

Still, Ford has accomplished one rare thing. Almost every proposal has something to be said for it. This is one of the very few which has none.

Tour charters can help you slash vacation costs

(First of two columns)

As of this Oct. 15, ads will start appearing in travel sections of newspapers and magazines across the country containing three initials—OTC—which can slash the vacation costs of millions of you by as much as 50 per cent.

The initials stand for "one-stop tour charter," a method of low-cost group plane travel which has been unavailable to the majority of us until now because of needless government restrictions and absurd red tape. With the new OTCs, though, many of these restrictions will be lifted, sharply cutting both air-travel and hotel costs.

Just what is an OTC charter? In brief, it is a group tour to one city that you may take as an individual. You must sign up at least 15 or 30 days in advance of the flight, depending upon a domestic or international destination, pay for air transportation and hotel accommodations and agree to stay either a minimum of four or seven days. That's it. Most significant: you are not required to be part of a so-called "affinity" group to use a charter flight.

With escalating fuel costs sending scheduled air fares up and airlines warning of even greater increases in 1976, the OTCs are coming just in time. The bargain portion lies in the air fare — about half that of scheduled airline fares. And to suggest what's ahead, the number of OTC charters now being filed by tour operators with the Civil Aeronautics Board (a legal requirement) is reaching blizzard proportions.

Sylvia Porter

The estimated 4,500,000 Americans who now fly on charters "could double with OTCs," predicts Glenn A. Cramer, board chairman of Oakland-based Trans International Airlines, largest charter airline in the world and a Transamerica Corp. subsidiary.

First time

"For the first time, travelers can really take advantage of low cost charter tours. OTCs will rejuvenate the soft domestic and international tourist markets."

Even the CAB — which held out for so long against this break for the consumer — now admits that if OTCs are successful, they will "mean profits to the scheduled (airline) industry, not losses, because OTC will provide an expanding traffic base for the industry at a time when it is faced with too many empty seats."

To help you shop for an OTC vacation: Visit more than one travel agent. OTCs are so new and so many types will be offered that many agents may not be up to date.

Shop around for an OTC charter that is departing on a date coinciding with your travel plans. OTCs are being arranged to popular tourist spots everywhere.

Check if an OTC is leaving from your local airport directly to your choice of destination. For an OTC will save time and money if it can leave from an inland city (Nashville, say, or Peoria) flies non-stop to its destination — eliminating the so-called "gateway" city.

Find out what the package price includes. All OTC tours must include a round-trip charter flight, hotel accommodations, airport transfers, baggage handling. But one flight might feature deluxe hotels at the same price that another offers first class hotels. Some might include sightseeing tours at no extra cost.

Check if meals are included. Competition between the many OTCs to be offered will be very keen and some meals (costly overseas) may be thrown in. If a Modified American Plan (two meals a day) is offered and costs the same or only a little more than a European Plan (no meals), the MAP may be a much better buy.

Ask the travel agent about financial penalties, if you change your trip plans.

Ask about long weekend OTCs, under which you can stay for as little as three nights or four days at any vacation spot in North America or the Caribbean. For other parts of the world, the OTC minimum stay is one week.

When OTCs were allowed in Europe about a decade ago, the European travel market exploded, TIA's Cramer recalls. Europeans began traveling all over the continent as well as to Africa and the Middle East at very low cost. At the same time, this upsurge in charter travel did not adversely affect scheduled service — and in fact, scheduled service in Europe went into a boom.

What is good for the Poconos community?

By ALAN GOULD Jr.
A change of topic. This is not directly about your newspaper, its trials, trevails and triumphs. It concerns our community, more precisely the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce. You can help.

A baker's half dozen of us gathered around a table for a couple of hours last week and shot ideas back and forth on ways that the Poconos could be improved or maintained. And specifically, how the Chamber should, take part.

The Chamber has over 300 memberships and a budget around $20,000. It includes as members almost every industry and business in Monroe County and a few in Pike and Carbon.

It has a reputation, earned especially on the national and state levels, of taking the side of business, or as detractors express it "big business", as opposed to something even more nebulous — "the public."

Yet the bylaws of the local Chamber proclaim the purpose of the organization to be "promote and protect the best interests of the Pocono Mountains especially in the fields of civic, commercial, industrial and consumer interests."

The message here today is to relate a few of the thoughts of that meeting (which was adjourned with plans to gather again in mid-October) and invite participation from any of the rest of you who share the Chamber's hope to work toward promoting "the best interests of the Poconos."

A suggestion that drew the most discussion was to establish a local office to field complaints and questions on local business.

Our Chamber is a member of the Better Business Bureau of Scranton to which some complaints are referred. Other inquiries go to the Bureau of Consumer Protection in Allentown. Even The Record provides a valuable consumer service through the Write to Know column shepherded by Joe DeVivo.

However, all those take time. There is no local file or authority for prompt response on something that may need fast action.

Another thought was to involve the Chamber in a survey of retail pricing with hopes of ending the fact or myth that prices are unreasonably high in our stores compared to other communities of similar size.

A hope was that if the survey established that prices were high, a means could be found to make them more competitive so that both consumer and retailer would benefit.

Beautification, both in something new and something preserved, was batted around. It quickly settled on billboards as beautification enemy number one. A policy is lacking. Leadership by the Chamber to work with those who own the signs and others who may feel their business depends on them could begin to solve the problem.

It was suggested that the Chamber take at least ex-officio part in our general progress through membership on the General Authority and in county planning. This would lead to more authoritative decisions on projects in which the Chamber should take stands.

There were thoughts that the strength of East Stroudsburg State College could be enhanced and-or exploited through involvement in industrial technology courses providing training on one hand and use of professional business people as planners and instructors on the other.

More "chamberish" thoughts included rejuvenation of scholastic-industrial ties, production of a service directory and book on local talent resources, sponsorship of community spirit programs in such areas as voting and celebration of holidays and leading into the bicentennial.

The list is much longer and promises to lead the Chamber into areas where it can do more good for more people. True, a chamber is underwritten by people who own a business or operate a money-making organization. But you know, at least outside the doors of their own office, these people are "the public", consumers like everyone else.

Yes Charley Wilson once said, "What's good for General Motors is good for the public" but in the same sentence business detractors would have us forget that he added "and what's good for the public is good for General Motors."

The Chamber invites anyone's comments and participation. Contact Bob Wise, the executive director, at 17 South 7th Street, Stroudsburg.

FALL OPENING

Thursday Afternoon and Evening, September 23rd

The New Fashions Will Be Shown on Living Models. Music by Merwin's Orchestra. A Comprehensive Gathering of the Authentic Styles for Fall Will Be Interestingly Shown.

For the past few months speculation has been rife concerning the Fall Fashions. Paris, in spite of the handicap the war has placed on her artistic activities, is still the source of all fashionable inspiration. With half the world in mourning, however, and in no mood for fashions America remains the only large outlet for her creations. This has forced Paris to pay more attention this season to the simple, refined tastes of American women. Our own gifted American designers, too, have been creating this season along lines distinguished for simple beauty and the styles they have produced have equalled the French creations in originality and artistic merit.

The choicest styles thus far produced are represented in our Fall Opening Displays, which owing to our unusual efforts will be of deeper interest this season than ever before. We were even more careful than usual in selecting these styles, for we did not care to run the risk of introducing garments that were not of assured correctness. So you can accept without question the styles presented here; they are authoritative.

We Shall Devote Thursday Afternoon and Evening to the Formal Introduction of the New Fall Fashions. You Are Cordially Urged to Come!

Congressional roll call

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE

WASHINGTON — In key roll call votes last week, the House passed a comprehensive energy bill which includes an anti-busing amendment.

The Senate also tacked an anti-busing provision on an appropriations bill, and voted to reimpose price controls on most domestic oil until Nov. 15.

The House:
—Final passage of an energy bill which Democratic sponsors say could ultimately save four million barrels of oil a day, approved 255-148.

Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-10, yes; Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-15, yes.

—An amendment to the energy bill that seeks to encourage energy conservation by prohibiting the housing of students other than to the public school nearest their homes, passed 204-201.

McDade, no; Rooney, yes.

—A motion to reimpose the embargo on the importation of chrome from Rhodesia, defeated 187-209.

McDade, yes; Rooney, no.

The Senate:

—A bill reimposing price controls on most domestic oil until Nov. 15, so that Congress and the White House have time to work out a compromise national energy policy, passed 75-5.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., yes; Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., yes.

—An amendment to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, appropriations bill which bars the use of funds to require transportation of students for reasons of race unless required by a final decree of a court law, passed 44-34.

Scott, yes; Schweiker, yes.

Mazzei on trial again

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Former Pennsylvania state Sen. Frank Mazzei of Pittsburgh goes on trial in federal court Monday for allegedly lying to a grand jury over what he did with $11,300 in kickback money.

The trial was moved here on a change of venue because of publicity surrounding Mazzei's trial and subsequent sentencing for an extortion conviction. He was expelled from the Senate in June for that conviction.

Last November, Mazzei, a Democrat, was convicted of extorting $20,000 from the BMI Corp., a southside Pittsburgh firm, in return for assuring the company would receive state leasing contracts. In April, he was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $20,000.

His appeal is now before the U.S. Supreme Court, but in June his colleagues in the Senate voted to expell him after facing mounting pressure from the public and media to do so. Mazzei had asked for a leave of absence without pay pending outcome of his appeal.

During his trial last November, a BMI official testified that 10 per cent of all money collected on state leasing contracts was to be used for a "Senate re-election or campaign committee."

Hirohito's protection heavy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has taken extraordinary steps to protect Japan's Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako during a two-week state visit that begins Tuesday.

The royal couple are the first Japanese monarchs ever to visit the United States. Hirohito has reigned more than 50 years, throughout World War II and the U.S. occupation of his land.

U.S. officials said their chief security concern is that Japanese terrorists — such as the "Red Army" group that raided the U.S. embassy in Malaysia two months ago — might try to attack the emperor during his travels from the Atlantic Coast.

Legislators protect 'slush fund' rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It used to be called the "slush fund." Then it became the "newsletter fund." Now it's the "constituent services fund."

But by any name, the game is the same: Members of Congress use private donations to run their offices in a style Congress refuses to finance, and they consider this money outside the bounds of political contributions which must by law be limited and accounted for.

Last week, Congress forced the reform-minded Federal Election Commission to back off its attempt to rewrite the rules governing "constituent services funds."

Under heavy pressure, the commission voted unanimously to change its earlier ruling that Congressmen must charge all money from "constituent services funds" against the new campaign spending limits set by law for members of Congress.

Instead, it decided the private funds will count as political spending only in the last year of a House member's two year term and the last two years of a senator's six-year term.

Congress created the commission to reform campaign spending practices and Congress can veto its decisions. In this case, it did so.

Traditionally, Congressmen have argued the private office funds are donated and used to improve their service to constituents and should not be subtracted from the amounts they may legally accept and spend for reelection purposes.

The successive changes of label show how the private funds have grown to respectability among public office holders.

Richard Nixon's use of private contributions to help run his senatorial office almost ran him out of politics. It was a close thing in 1952 whether Dwight Eisenhower would drop Nixon from the Republican ticket because of revelations about his "slush" fund.

Nixon denied impropriety and satisfied Republican elders with an emotional, televised speech known to this day as the "Checkers" speech because of his mention of his daughters' dog. But the slush fund remained under a cloud.

The "newsletter" stage came next, when congressmen found the congressional newsletter to be a good way of keeping in touch with constituents.

NOW strike gaining support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the National Organization for Women said Sunday they have received letters and telephone calls from several thousand people who want to join a one-day, nationwide women's strike Oct. 29.

The feminist strike, which has been named "Alice Doesn't...," was announced two weeks ago by NOW members who believe it will show how much the country depends on women.

"The response in the last week has been fantastic," Cindy Clark, one of the strike leaders, said in a telephone interview from San Jose, Calif. "We have heard from women in the military, women in Capitol Hill, nurses, business and professional women, factory workers ... and men too."

Ms. Clark said she has received about 2,000 letters and phone calls in the past week and that a number of the other strike organizers are getting a similar response.

Ripe green oranges: Fruit changes color

If you're disappointed at how fast your favorite summertime-only produce disappears from the stores, take heart. There is one summer favorite you'll be seeing for a while, the Valencia orange from California.

Valencias are abundant throughout the spring and summer and into November when navels take over. This season's crop of Valencias is abundant and of good quality for snacks, juice — you name it. Isn't it nice to know you're never without oranges?

Late season Valencia oranges have some great things going for them. They've been hanging on the tree all summer long so they're extra sweet and juicy. Because they're abundant, the prices have remained reasonable.

Another thing you'll notice about Valencia oranges right now is that they're wearing a greenish tinge. You may at first assume that greenish oranges are unripe, but actually this means they are extra-ripe.

Valencia oranges begin to turn golden in the winter months, long before they are ripe. Exterior color has nothing to do with ripeness, so even though they look ripe, it takes months of tree ripening before these oranges are ready to pick.

As the fruit hangs on the tree during the warm days of summer, a real botanical puzzle occurs. The orange oranges begin to turn green again! Experts call this occurrence "re-greening". They blame it on warm ground temperatures returning chlorophyll to the skins. The people at Sunkist Growers, Inc. call these extra-special oranges "summer green" oranges. Look for them in your stores and find out why you shouldn't judge an orange by its orange.

Back to school with oranges
Now that school is back in session, it becomes a challenge to be creative with packed lunches and after-school snacks. Fresh oranges from California and Arizona are abundant to help solve your problem. They make a great fresh fruit addition to the lunchbox and go well in recipes.

Here are three recipes that have the delicate flavor of fresh oranges that youngsters love.

Golden Rule Sandwich Spread

(4 servings)

- 1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
- 2 California - Arizona oranges, peeled, diced, drained
- 1/2 cup finely chopped cabbage
- 1/4 cup chunk style peanut butter
- 3 tablespoons chopped raisins
- 1 Dash of salt
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 8 slices buttered bread

Mix, peel, oranges and cabbage. Blend together softened peanut butter, raisins, salt and mayonnaise; combine with orange mixture, blend well. Spread on buttered bread.

Orange Brownies

(24 brownies)

- 1 California - Arizona orange, pureed
- 1 package (15-ounce) fudge brownie mix
- 1/4 cup fresh squeezed orange juice
- 1 egg
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Grease only the bottom of a 13 x 9-inch baking pan. To puree orange, trim a thin slice from both ends of unpeeled fruit; cut in half lengthwise. With a shallow V-shaped cut, remove white center core. Cut halves into wedges, removing any seeds; then cut into chunks so they will puree easily in blender.

Combine puree with brownie mix, orange juice, and egg. Add walnuts, combining well. Spread into baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 40 minutes.

Cool at least 2 hours before cutting and serving.

Bugs infest many foods

STROUDSBURG — County Agent John Withrow reports numerous inquiries about the small beetles, moths and larvae in cereals, flour, spices, chocolate, and similar foods.

He says the infested material should be carefully examined on a tray and any containing insects thrown away.

Cupboards should be emptied, sprayed and left to dry for a few hours before returning contents.

Dried pet food, birdseed, and dried plants are also a source of infestation.

CHIROPRACTIC IN MENOPAUSE

Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, D.C.

The question is often asked if Chiropractic can help Menopause. The answer is Yes. Many women accept menopause with relative comfort indicating that this time of life should not be accompanied by distress. Other women pass through menopause with much distress, with a great deal of variance of effects. Such as irritability, insomnia, palpitation, hot flashes and flushing of the face; all due to instability of the nervous system regulating the circulation and hormone balance.

The nervous system often can be effectively regulated with Chiropractic and reduce many or all of distress symptoms.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the scientific practice of Chiropractic, written by Dr. Thomas F. Snyder, Chiropractic Orthopedist, Brodheads-ville, Pa. 18322. Phone 992-4787).

Biofeedback—voluntary control

I'm constantly reading about the new science of biofeedback. Why is there so much excitement about it as a form of medical treatment?

Mr. B.T., Tex.

Dear Mr. T.:

There is great interest in the new science known as biofeedback.

Its early promises now seem to be opening broad areas of research in the control of body function.

For centuries it has been known that the yogi was able to control the depth of his respiration, the rate of his heart beat and even the degree of perspiration, by an unexplained control over his involuntary nervous system.

A highly specialized autonomic nervous system is a division of the general nervous system of the body. Unlike the rest of our nervous system, the autonomic subdivision is involved in the involuntary control of body functions.

Biofeedback is, in essence, a method by which the involuntary control can be placed under voluntary control.

By studying brain waves and altering some of them, it is felt that biofeedback may be valuable for the control of anxiety, deep-seated fears, drug abuse and alcoholism.

Some enthusiasts even feel that insomnia, headaches, high blood pressure and social adjustment of society may be affected by biofeedback training.

At the Morton Prince Center for Hypnotherapy, in New York City, biofeedback is being used to break the habit of smoking and to modify behavior in people who are markedly overweight.

Dr. Milton V. Kline, Director of the Morton Prince Center, believes that within the framework of the newer studies in biofeedback there lies an enormous potential for controlling psychological problems that resist other methods of treatment.

Do the adenoids tend to disappear as the child grows older?

Mrs. H.D., Wisc.

Dear Mrs. D.:

Usually, past puberty, the adenoids tend to become smaller.

It is relatively rare for teenagers and young adults to have persistent and bothersome adenoids, even if the tonsils still do present a problem.

Surgery, therefore, in this age group is directed only to the removal of tonsils if repeated sore throats occur.

My doctor found that I have a "fissure in ano." Can you tell me what causes this?

Mr. J.N., N.C.

Dear Mr. N.:

This condition is a split in the mucous membrane lining around the opening of the anus. It could be compared to a persistent crack in the lips that fails to heal.

People with chronic constipation may develop a fissure which becomes infected and is surrounded by a deep ulcer in the muscle around the anus.

Medical treatment, using lubricants and antibiotics, in addition to special diets, often will heal the fissure.

If the condition persists and is painful, especially during bowel movements, a small surgical procedure can be performed.

The operation is not difficult and is very effective in clearing up this painful, but not serious, condition.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of The Pocono Record.

Schedules

I got the idea the other morning when I shook the blankets and my college son fell out of them. It was 11 a.m. "Aren't you going to get up?" I suggested.

"What do you want from me?" he mumbled. "Five days a week, I get up at the break of noon, drag out to the campus, break my brain over books, come home, and watch a little TV to unwind."

The schedule sounded like three weeks in the Bahamas.

At noon, when he wandered out into the kitchen, he said, "What's for breakfast?"

I reached into my slacks pocket and unfolded my schedule. "Let's see... noon on Friday... sorry, I don't have a kitchen lab at noon. This period I've got 'TV Unwind.'"

"What schedule?" he asked.

"Everyone around here has a schedule but me," I said. "Things are going to change. After this semester I'll have one breakfast at 8 o'clock. After that you'll have to get it on campus."

"You have flipped," he said storming from the room.

Minutes later, he returned with a pair of new jeans. "Could you shrink these before I leave at two?"

I checked the schedule.

"Don't have laundry on my schedule this term. Couldn't work it in. I'm only carrying 96 hours. Last semester I carried 127, which left only 41 for my major, sleep."

"Okay," he grinned, "I'll play your little game. Could I use your car today or don't you want to give up your parking space?"

I unfolded the schedule again. "No. I've got a field trip to the Beauty Shop at 2:30. I missed last week and it was an important session, touch up roots."

"And after that?"

"A class at the bank in financing, a session in marketing at the grocery store, then home for nutrition. That's it. No Saturday classes. I'm free until Monday at 8 a.m."

I opened the refrigerator and began to go for seconds on my lunch tray. My son slammed the door. "Ah ah, no fair cramming. You either know it or you don't."

No wonder the childbirth classes were canceled due to lack of interest.

Vietnam's end opens gates

War toys resume charge

By GAY SANDS MILLER
Dow Jones-Ottaway News

PITTSBURGH — When Scotty was a tow-headed, blue-eyed toddler back during the Vietnam-war years, he wasn't allowed to play with war toys. The boy's young mother opposed the war. "I didn't think we had any business being there," she says.

Since the Vietnam conflict ended, however, Scotty's 26-year-old mother has done a brisk about-face on war toys. She readily admits that six-year-old Scotty now has "a great many toy soldiers, tanks and stuff. He even has an Army soldier's outfit he bought at the Army and Navy store."

Shopping with her two sons in the toy department of a W. T. Grant Co. store here, she observes: "Now that we've pulled out of Vietnam, I guess everybody has a different feeling about war toys."

Many in the toy industry are betting that Scotty's mother is right. Toy makers who had retreated from war-toy production during the anti-Vietnam-war climate of the late 1960s currently are bringing the toys back, though in some cases they have toned down warlike advertising and packaging.

While nationwide statistics aren't kept on this segment of the toy business, some toy producers say military-toy sales are already running ahead of year-earlier levels.

Still others expect to get more bucks for the bang in increased sales this fall, as retailers stock up for the Christmas sales rush. (While the U.S. cease-fire in Vietnam was signed in early 1973, toy makers need as much as two years to work up a toy design into a product on the shelf.)

Falling in step with the return to military toys, Mattel Inc., of Hawthorne, Calif., is offering a new-for-1975 item called "Heroes in Action." The little plastic gunmen go rata-tat-tat, but don't actually shoot projectiles.

Sales are "right on target," according to a Mattel spokesman, who declines to be more specific. (By contrast, a spokesman for the Toy Manufacturers of America says toy soldier sets weren't "doing anything" during the Vietnam years.)

Tonka Corp., Hopkins, Minn., found that the first military jeep it brought back last year proved "extremely popular." This led the company to add four new vehicles this year and to contemplate marketing still other military trucks in 1976.

On another front, receding memories of Vietnam "must have brought out lots of the closet war-gamers — people who always wanted war games but didn't dare to buy them" because of peer pressure, says Thomas Shaw, vice president of Avalon Hill Co., a Baltimore-based maker of board games for adults.

Sales of its war-related games, including "Blitzkrieg" and "Panzerblitz," soared 50 per cent in the first seven months of this year from the 1974 period, he says.

Milton Bradley Co., Springfield, Mass., boasts that sales of its three "American Heritage" board games — "Dogfight," "Battle-Cry" and "Broadsides" are up 60 per cent through July.

Retailers, too, have noticed signs of revived customer demand. Edward Wittekind, manager of the San Francisco branch of F. A. O. Schwarz, says more and more customers are asking for war toys. "People get a little upset that you don't have them," he reports. With demand perking up, Schwarz's top management recently told stores to "go ahead and buy" formerly taboo war toys, he adds.

Up through the Korean conflict, war-toy sales were "good every time the country went into military action," recalls Lionel A. Weintraub, president of Ideal Toy Corp. (Indeed, war toys have always been with us; one historian says Roman children were playing with tin and lead soldiers in 27 B.C.)

But in the emotionally charged 1960s war toys were generally withdrawn by toy makers. "You had to take military toys and hide them on the deepest, darkest shelf," recalls Ideal Toy's Weintraub.

William Kovatch

TANNERSVILLE — Funeral services for William Kovatch, 66, of Long Pond, who died Friday, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Gantzhorn Funeral Home, Tannersville. Burial will be in the Tannersville Union Cemetery. Viewing will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home. Masonic services will be conducted at 8 p.m. Tuesday by the Barger Lodge F&A.M. at the funeral home.

Mrs. Mary Contes

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Mary Contes, 63, of 729 Main St., Stroudsburg, died Friday at Stroud Manor, East Stroudsburg. Born in Greece, she was the daughter of the late Peter and Eridopia (Karagatley) Allam and a resident of Stroudsburg for the past 30 years, living before that in New York City. She was a member of the Greek Orthodox Church of Easton.

She is survived by three sons, George Contes of Hewitt, N.J., John Contes of Dover, N.J. and Jerry Contes of New York City, N.Y.; one daughter, Miss Delores Contes of Las Vegas, Nev.; one brother, James P. Allam of Stroudsburg, and one grandchild.

Private funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday from the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home with Rev. P.A. Falsis officiating.

Burial will be in the Stroudsburg Cemetery. There will be no viewing.

Coleman K. Leshner

MOUNT POCONO — Coleman K. Leshner, 71, of Grange Road, Mount Pocono, died at his home Saturday morning. Born in Lewisburg, the son of the late Martin H. and Mary (Sober) Leshner, he was of the Baptist faith. He retired as a line foreman with Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. and, since his retirement, has made his home in Alachua R.D. 2, Fla. and Mount Pocono.

He was a member of the Pocono Lodge, F&A.M., Keystone Consistory and Irem Temple. He is survived by one son, Coleman R. Leshner of Shelton, Conn.; one brother, Thornton Leshner of Nazareth; two sisters, Mrs. Mildred L. Fries of St. Cloud, Fla. and Mrs. Martha S. Leiby of Lewistown, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday from the William R. Thomas Funeral Home, 401 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg with Rev. Russell Walters officiating.

Burial will be in the Lewisburg Cemetery at 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Viewing will be from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home. Pocono Lodge will conduct Masonic Services at 8 p.m. Memorial donations may be sent to the American Heart Assn., 509 Scott St., Stroudsburg.

Depot preps for Bicentennial

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna Army Depot has been designated as an official U.S. Army bicentennial installation by the American Revolution Administration and is authorized to fly the bicentennial flag.

The depot began its bicentennial planning early with the formation of a committee in January, with the objective to promote Tobyhanna's activities in the birthday anniversaries of the nation and the U.S. Army.

Several months later, attractive bicentennial displays were set up in the lobby of the Administration Building. The exhibits were seen by 4,000 visitors during the depot's open house in May and several thousand persons since.

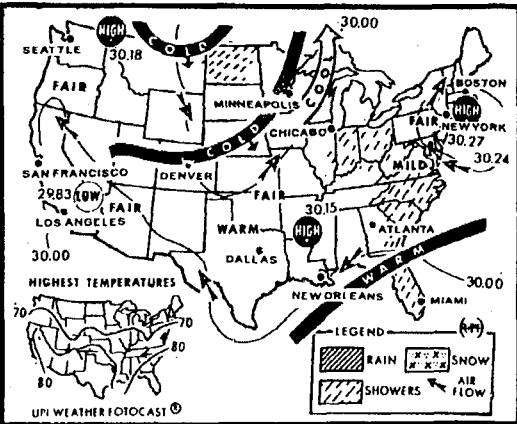

Last June, the area military base celebrated the 200th birthday of the Army with a dinner in the Officers Club.

The lobby displays include a fiberglass replica of the Liberty Bell, surrounded by manikins of soldiers of various eras; an exhibit that depicts photos and background information all signers of the Declaration of Independence, and a sign-in desk where visitors may reaffirm their allegiance in the Declaration of Independence.

Tobyhanna's involvement in the bicentennial also includes a float. The float, with Armed Forces Queen Sharon Warner of Moosic and her court of four princesses riding aboard decked in colonial garb, has appeared in several area parades.

Middle School swim program starts today

STROUDSBURG — The evening swim program at the Stroudsburg Middle School will begin today.

The elementary program has been divided into four eight-week sessions by schools. The schedule is: Hamilton, Sept. 29 to Nov. 21; Morey, Dec. 2 to Feb. 6; Ramsey, Feb. 9 to April 2, and Clearview, April 5 to June 4.

This year, only grades 2-4 will be involved in the elementary program so that 16 one-half hour sessions can be offered each student at a cost of $8 plus $1 registration fee.

Hamilton students wishing to take lessons on Mondays and Wednesdays should report to the middle school between 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Two adult classes will be offered each eight-week session at the cost of $15 per person. An adult beginners class will meet from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Mondays. From 7:30-8:30 p.m. Wednesdays there will be an adults' intermediate class, open to those adults who wish to perfect their strokes.

A recreational swim will be offered from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays for 25 cents per person. On Thursdays, a family swim will be offered from 7:30-8:30 p.m. at a cost of 25 cents per person, but no more than $1 per family. Each child must be accompanied by an adult.

Millbrook Days to mirror history

MILLBROOK, N.J. — A two-day presentation of old-time crafts and village activities entitled "Millbrook Days" has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, October 4 and 5, according to Richard Plog, president of the Millbrook Village Society, Inc. Hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily.

Millbrook, an early village now undergoing renovation in the National Park area, Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, is located on Old Mine Road about 12 miles north of the Delaware Water Gap bridge, on the New Jersey side of the river. The Millbrook Village Society is a co-operating agency with the National Park Service.

Clifford Hauser of Delaware Water Gap, acting as co-ordinator for the events in the affair, said Millbrook Days as an open house occasion with crafts demonstrations was inaugurated in 1971, when Park Service reclamation began.

The first restoration was the country store, which burned a year later, with all its contents. The present store and post office were set up in an early building brought to its present site. Old-fashioned candy will be the only commodity on sale.

Other rehabilitations, restorations, and replacements include the little white church, a blacksmith shop, two modest authentically furnished dwellings of the period of the second half of the Nineteenth Century, and a one-room country schoolhouse.

A number of small auxiliary structures, including covered well houses, add a touch of reality to the village. Still others, including a log cabin and a shoemaker's shop, are awaiting the time when funds for restoration become available.

Mrs. Ruth Hauser, Delaware Water Gap; Mrs. Horace Walters, East Stroudsburg; and Mrs. Edna Crown, Stillwater, N.J., are heading a group of costumed hostesses from nearby communities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The Women's Society for Christian Service of the Poplar Valley Methodist Church will handle arrangements for food.

Hauser, in listing activities scheduled for the weekend, said that at this point a number are still in the tentative stage. However, square dancing on Saturday and a three o'clock church service on Sunday are firm commitments. Demonstrations of cider-making, soap-boiling, vegetable soup and apple butter-cooking, rug braiding and hooking, spinning, slate cutting, and ice cream-making extend the list.

A drying oven, a small outdoor structure once used in the production of dried fruits and green beans, is in the process of construction and hopefully will be ready for demonstration purposes on millbrook days.

The town crier, with his hand bell to announce special events, will be on hand. Fishing, for youngsters only, is a planned activity. The public is invited. There is no admission charge or parking fee.

Let Me Assure You by Alan Karpe

While your homeowner's policy offers some coverage on high-value items within your home — jewelry, silver, furs — this is usually limited to a small percentage of the aggregate loss in case of fire or theft.

Although some household policies offer a broader form of protection, the widest coverage is available under a Personal Articles Floater. Each item is listed individually and is covered under almost any eventuality.

Each item is supposed to be insured for 100 percent of its current value. Your jewelry and silver have probably increased in value in recent years; furs are depreciated yearly.

Storing your car? If it's really DEAD storage, you may want to drop auto liability coverage. But keep up your comprehensive coverage in case of fire, theft or vandalism.

If hidden damages in your auto bring repair costs above the original estimate, what then? You or the adjuster will be notified; additional payment usually will be authorized with no question.

We work to protect you most fully at lowest cost. Call us for all your insurance needs.

Rolls Royce automobiles turned ice skating rink into showroom during weekend

Rolls roll into Pocono resort

By HARRIET LEEDS
Pocono Record Reporter
BUCK HILL FALLS — Like solicitous fathers showing off newborn sons, the owners rubbed imaginary specks and fingerprints from their newly cleaned and waxed Rolls Royces.

There were six Silver Ghosts and nine Phantom IIIs, eight Silver Cloud IIIs and three vintage Bentleys, one of which formerly belonged to Barbara Streisand, among the 158 Rolls Royces at the Buck Hill Inn and Country Club this weekend.

The Rolls Royce Owners Club gathered for its 1975 Inter-regional meet from as far away as Canton, Miss., Toronto, Can. and London, England.

Leslie Archer-Davis of London, England drove his Rolls cross-country from San Francisco for the meet.

"One can learn a lot from the technical lectures and socially, one can meet people interested in the same subject," Archer-Davis said.

The Rolls Royce aficionado said this was the fifth ocean voyage for his car, which will be loaded onto the Queen Elizabeth II in New York Monday to be sailed back to England.

He has participated in many Rolls Royce Owner Club meets all over both countries.

Ken and Mermie Karger drove their 1913 Silver Ghost up from Philadelphia for the show, which Karger helped to organize.

Mermie explained before World War II, Rolls Royce only built the chassis, not the bodies, of their cars. Rolls owners went to private coach builders who constructed the bodies to specifications.

"The body of this car," Mermie said, "was built by Jacques Saoutchik, the French coach builder."

Rolls Royces were built in the United States between 1919 and 1934.

Allen Swift, an elderly man from Connecticut, is the original owner of a 1928 Phantom I made in Springfield, Mass.

"I went down there and picked out the paint while it was being built," Swift said.

His car is the same bright green now and the rare auto runs just as well too.

Among the newer cars at the meet was a 1963 Continental Drophead Coupe, owned by Jack Dudley of Battle Creek, Mich.

Dudley said he has been to every major meet since 1958, but drove the 817 miles here from Michigan in his newest car instead of going to the west coast meet this year.

The luminous black car was hand-painted with a lacquer imported from Germany, Dudley said, rather than the acrylic paint most people use.

In all, he said he spent more money restoring the car than the original purchase price.

Most of the car owners in the inn's ice skating rink, which had been converted to a garage for the weekend, cursed the rain Friday as they scrubbed and polished their cars in preparation for the judging the next day.

An employee of the inn laughed as she described the arrival of a hoodless Rolls Royce whose occupants were holding towels over their heads to protect themselves from the downpour.

An area tour scheduled for Friday was postponed due to the weather, but Saturday's sunshine brought out more than 400 people to the club's judging and outdoor picnic, according to Rich McLaughlin, Buck Hill Inn sales manager. Karger said the cars were judged on the basis of their condition.

No flood of cancellations

Resorts 'weather' Eloise

By DEBORAH ENYEART
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — The Pocono tourist industry weathered last week's storms better than travel officials thought it might.

The state Bureau of Travel Development estimated the bad weather had reduced tourism business in the Poconos by 40 per cent.

However, local resorts, motels and restaurants did better than the state predicted, according to Bob Ugucioni, executive director of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

"The state's estimates Friday night were very much inflated because of the emotion of the time. At the time it looked pretty bleak, but it looks like we did all right," Ugucioni said Sunday night.

He explained the state bureau contacted him Friday to try to determine economic effects of the heavy rains on the industry.

At that time the vacation bureau and local establishments were receiving many calls from people concerned about the weather and road conditions and feared they might have 50 per cent cancellations.

"There was a flood of calls that night as the state did its survey. There was definitely a negative reaction from the people," Ugucioni said.

However, the improved weather Saturday morning prompted many people to go on their trips after all, he added.

He attributed much of the concern to news accounts of flooding in the northeast and central Pennsylvania areas.

"Yes, we did have a considerable difficulty with the vast news coverage of the flooding in Wilkes-Barre. People associate us (the Poconos) with the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area," he said.

"Still, I think we'd all rather suffer a little business decrease than suffer the actual flooding," he added.

Most resorts and motels contacted Sunday said their few cancellations were filled by impulse travelers so they were booked-up after all.

One of them, the Sheraton Pocono Inn, reported no more cancellations than usual. "There were a few cancellations, just like any other week, which were filled up anyway with walk-ins," explained a receptionist.

Other establishments, such as Mo-nom-o-nock, the Heritage Motel and the Holiday Inn in East Stroudsburg, reported they were full all week with visitors for the Worldwide Church of God convention.

Still other places, including Taminent and Mountain Lake House, reported conventions kept their rooms filled.

Despite the absence of empty rooms, managers said they didn't see as many impulse travelers as usual.

"We had a couple cancellations, but no great number. We didn't get the off-the-road business," said Henryville House manager Bill Westover.

Local restaurants indicated business was about the same as usually, although it was off slightly in some places.

At one resort that did have many cancellations the blame was directed at news coverage and state police who advised people not to travel.

Dave Artzt, general director and owner of Pocmont, said he had at least 10 per cent cancellations.

"I was in Stroudsburg and here where we are in Bushkill. Do you see a flood? But state police told people not to come because we're flooded," he said.

He added he had just received a cancellation notice from a honeymoon couple who said they weren't coming after they talked to police.

"You can't read that we're flooded and not be scared," Artzt said.

Monroe murder trial to begin

BLOOMSBURG — Jury selection is to begin Monday in Bloomsburg for the murder trial of Gregory Powlett, 18, of 20 Kiwanis St., East Stroudsburg who is accused of killing an East Stroudsburg service station owner during a robbery Jan. 24.

James F. Marsh, Monroe County district attorney, said he will seek a conviction of second degree murder which carries a mandatory sentence of life in prison.

Marsh said the prosecution anticipates calling eight witnesses for the Commonwealth, including two youths who previously pleaded guilty to murder in connection with the same incident.

Michael Chase, 18, and Gregg Porter, 17, both of East

Stroudsburg, are currently serving five to 10 year prison terms following their convictions of third degree murder.

Powlett, Chase and Porter were all charged with the shooting death of James D. Zane, 57, who died from a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

A statement of facts made by Chase and Porter during their guilty pleas said it was Powlett who fired the shot which killed Zane. Chase and Porter said they did not know that Powlett had a loaded weapon.

Powlett is currently being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

The trial was moved to Columbia County following a change of venue motion by Powlett's attorney.

Police blotter

Milford man's body found

MILFORD — State police discovered the body of a Milford man missing since Sept. 22 off Legislative Route 51010 in Milford Township at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Pike County Coroner Duncan Stroyan ruled tentatively that Jay Robert McCaslin, 23, of Gold Key Lake, Milford, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound of the head.

McCaslin was found after a weeklong search by state police at Milford who discovered his car with keys and two suicide notes last Monday.

Allentown man injured in wreck

KRESGEVILLE — An Allentown man was treated and released at the General Hospital of Monroe County Sunday after a one-car accident in Polk Township.

Clifford Snyder, 35, was taken to the hospital by the West End Ambulance after an accident which caused $2,000 damages to his station wagon.

State police at Lehighton said Snyder was traveling north on Township Route 425 a half mile south of Kresgeville when his car ran off the road on a curve, struck several trees on the east berm, skidded and stopped on the west berm.

Car knocks over utility pole

STROUDSBURG — A utility pole was knocked over Saturday morning after it was struck by a driver who swerved to avoid hitting another car.

Stroud Township police said James R. Nations Jr., 21, of Pocono Lake, was driving north on Rte. 447 near Learn's Store when a car pulled out in front of him from a private drive.

Nations reportedly swerved into the southbound lane, lost control of his car on the wet roadway and slid into the pole at 7:45 a.m.

Philadelphia man jailed

CRESKO — A Philadelphia man was committed to the Monroe County Jail Saturday in lieu of $5,000 bail after he allegedly assaulted a man at Carson's Riding Stables.

State police at Swiftwater said John D. Cavaliere, 25, of Philadelphia, had rented a horse and reportedly began arguing with guide Ronald R. Davis, 23, of Cresko.

He was charged with aggravated assault and reckless endangerment before District Magistrate Clara Pope and arraigned before District Magistrate Eleanor Randolph, police said.

Charges pending from wreck

MOUNT POCONO — Charges were pending Sunday following a Saturday evening two-car accident on Rte. 940 a mile and a half west of Mount Pocono.

Salvatore Sabatella, 44, of Brooklyn, was taken by the Coolbaugh Township ambulance to the General Hospital of Monroe County for treatment of head lacerations.

State police at Swiftwater said a car driven by Kenneth C. Lymaster, 34, of North Carolina, was traveling west on Rte. 940 when Sabatella pulled onto the road from Township Route 643.

Cresco man hurt

SWIFTWATER — A Philadelphia man was committed to the Monroe County Jail Saturday in lieu of $5,000 bail after he allegedly assaulted a man at Carson's Riding Stables.

State police at Leonard was driving south on Rte. 191 near Legislative Route 171 when an unknown vehicle passed him on the right, causing him to lose control, cross the north lane and strike a tree.

Corps now regulates dredging, filling of streams

PHILADELPHIA — Planning to dredge out a stream or fill in a shallow area next to one?

Don't. At least not until you have obtained an U.S. Army Corps of Engineers permit.

Beginning this year, permits are required for certain activities in navigable waters and ocean waters in order to protect water quality.

Along with the discharge of materials which has been dredged or excavated from any waters of the United States, activities regulated also include site developmental fills, causeways or road fills, dams and dikes, artificial islands, property protection devices, beaches, levees, sanitary landfills and backfill.

Public meetings will be held to explain the Army Engineers' role in administering the regulatory requirements of the Section 404 Permit Program, Federal Water Pollution Act of 1972.

The closest public meeting will be at 7 p.m. Oct. 15 in the Honesdale Senior High auditorium, 459 Terrace Road, Honesdale.

Authority extended
The new regulations will by 1977 extend the authority of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to all waters of the United States.

Previously, the Corps limited its concern to waters which are presently used, or were used in the past, to transport interstate commerce.

In March, however, a U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. directed the Corps to extend its jurisdiction to all waters of the U.S.

Phase I of the three-phase program, now in effect, extends the Corps' authority to the traditional navigable waters, lakes and adjacent wetlands.

Phase II, effective July 1, 1976, expands the Corps' authority to primary tributaries of navigable waters, lakes and wetlands. (Including the Brodhead Creek, for example.)

The stated reason for the Corps' gradual expansion into many areas that have never been regulated before is to protect water quality.

Public concerns
The procedures outlined in the new regulations are supposed to enable the environmental, social and economic concerns of the public to enter into the Corps' decision making process to either issue or deny permits.

Advertising and public hearings are described in great length in regulations published in the Federal Register July 25.

Application for a permit under this program should be made to the nearest district office of the Corps of Engineers.

A public notice is issued on each permit application. Comments received from interested individuals, groups and government agencies are furnished to the applicant for his rebuttal.

In cases of great public interest, as determined by the District Engineer, a public hearing will also be held.

Major controversial cases may be referred to higher headquarters for a decision.

In evaluating the permit application, the Corps is required to thoroughly analyze the impact of the proposed activity on the public interest, including water quality.

The benefits which may accrue from the proposal will be weighed against any foreseeable detriments, and a permit will be issued only when its issuance is found to be in the public interest.

To clarify the basic terms in the legislation, "dredged material" is defined as any material excavated or dredged from any of the waters of the United States.

It would not include materials produced in normal farming or ranching.

Maintenance or emergency reconstruction of existing structures such as dikes, dams or levees will not be regulated.

The Corps is supposed to work closely with states in the regulation of state waterways. Specifics of federal jurisdiction are spelled out in the regulations.

Discharges of dredged or fill material that occur before a

ESSC students face room rate hike

EAST STROUDSBURG — Although students at East Stroudsburg State College are still in the early weeks of the fall semester, they've already received bad news about next fall's room bill.

The maximum room rate at 14 state colleges will rise to $40 for an academic year with the new minimum set at $468.

The action to raise the maximum and minimum room rates was taken Thursday by the Board of State College and University Directors (SCUD) and will become effective in the fall of 1976.

College president Dr. Darrell Holmes said Friday the room rate will probably rise from the old minimum of $432 to the new minimum in the fall.

He added that a group of students are studying room rates and will have a recommendation next month on how much rates need to rise to meet the cost of maintaining a room.

Holmes said he thought the new minimum rate would be close to what the study group would recommend.

Louis Sancinito, president of the ESSC student senate, said he had heard rumors about the pending increase and criticized SCUD for not finding an alternate way to raise money.

SCUD doesn't recommend increasing taxes or fight for more appropriations but always looks for money from the students, he stated.

"The state system was a way the middle class sons and daughters could get ahead," he said, adding that state colleges feel obliged to raise their rates when private schools do.

"It's getting to be that those who attended private schools are now at state schools and those who were attending public schools are out on the street," Sancinito said.

He claimed that these actions are creating an "elitist" policy. "It's back to education for all who can afford it."

Sancinito praised Holmes for his "staunch support to hold the lines on costs for students."

Poconos and saxophone sweet suite for Phil Woods

By JEFF WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter
DELAWARE WATER GAP — Phil Woods is alive and well known (in jazz circles) and living in your back yard.

The alto saxophonist has 30 records to his credit, a grant to compose a major work for sax and orchestra and a cool manner smoothed by years of road work with Count Basie and myriad jazz greats.

He lives in Delaware Water Gap in a modest white clapboard house with his lady Jill and at least five cats, composing his three-movement "Sun Suite" in front of a blackened stone fireplace in his vaulting livingroom.

He began writing the suite under a grant by the National Endowment for the Arts; it comes to "fruition" in October when Woods, his quartet and an orchestra tape it for RCA Records.

conos, Woods' work is known nationally and internationally, yet he camouflages himself here, lays back and enjoys the scenery for a month, then flies through Japan and Holland touring jazz festivals or debuting a new work.

He left home (Springfield, Mass.) at 15, powered by Art Tatum and later Charlie Parker, jazz jingling in his blood, hauling a horn willed to him by his uncle. He hit the road with the Birdland Allstars tour, petrified but hungry to learn with his heroes — Count Basie, Sarah Vaughan, Bud Powell — riding the band bus and playing the southern "Tobacco Warehouse" circuit in the late 50s.

Living on the road out of a bus taught him about life, he feels. "There are still some (big) bands out there. (But) there's no place for young people to get that experience, although the colleges have tried to replace that in a sense with the stage band situation. But that doesn't teach you too much about life. That teaches you about the music, but the invaluable thing about the music, but you learn about living.

"You just keep your mouth shut and watch what the veterans do. I think that's ideal, don't you? Any man who's been doing it five times as long as you have must have something to say."

Woods has studied at both schools, trekking from Bach to bebop, from four years at Juillard through two decades of big bands and his own quartet. With a common twine called jazz running through his career, he has turned out eclectic potions like "Charity" on his 1973 album for Testament ("This is my boogaloo period.") and "Images," his latest LP for RCA with Michel Legrand and his orchestra.

His phrases are lithe, never overblown or dirty. He ranges from the cool ("The Windmills of Your Mind") to the big and brassy to the sporadic (the experimental sounds on the Testament album Woods said didn't go over in a night club in the San Fernando Valley).

Woods' rather eclectic life seems to give his music its dynamics.

"I used to interview American jazz artists for a French magazine — a jazz magazine," Woods said as he lit a cigarette and settled back in a chair in his livingroom.

That was during his 1968-72 stay in Paris, a trip Woods feels everyone should take. "It's one of the most magnificent cities in the world. If you're an artist, you owe it to yourself to go see it — why it's different — so you can relate to what you have here. You need that contrast," he said in a gravelly baritone voice.

A musician before he found an instrument, Woods just stumbled into the field. "I could whistle and make up a melody. I couldn't figure out why I couldn't sit down at the piano and just make up stuff. I was totally frustrated, and it would just sound terrible.

"But I remember the attraction. That's the reason I got the saxophone, because my uncle died. And when I was evidently nine, ten, or younger, I would go look at his sax. It just intrigued me, all that white — the pearl and the gold, you know. I just loved to touch it."

He was hooked after one lesson, took a four-year crack at classical clarinet and composition ("I had dreams of perhaps playing Mozart, but I found out that was not my road.") and gravitated toward jazz.

With a photographic memory for a melody, Woods set out to imitate his heroes of the big band era. "I guess you have to imitate before you can stretch out. That's how you learn how to fly. Essentially you can't teach jazz, but a great way to help a student learn how to play is to have him learn how to play different solos."

That background and the awe Woods says he feels for the jazz greats who have survived the decades ("It's easy to be a swinger when you're 26; let me check you out when you're 46.") lead him into his present brainchild, "Sun Suite."

"It will be a piece that everybody will be able to play, hopefully. It is meant to be used — not just recorded once and discarded. Hopefully published and used in schools. I'm trying to construct it in such a way it can be played with almost any instrumentation."

Lighting another cigarette, Woods describes his round-the-world tour of jazz festivals, culminating with the recording of "Images" before the Concord Jazz Festival this year in California.

But can he describe in words what his music's about?

"No. Only when I have a horn in my mouth."

Warriors upend Rams with second half surge

By JOE MIEGOC
Record Sports Editor
EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College has a young football team and perhaps they were a bit unsettled in the first half Saturday night against West Chester. But in the second half they settled down.

That second half contained a brilliant offensive-defense blending by the Warriors that carried them to a 24-20 victory over arch-rival West Chester, the Warriors' third straight victory to open the season and first win over the Golden Rams in seven seasons.

A fumbled punt in the first period and a bobbled kickoff to open the second half gave West Chester the field position it used to take a 14-6 lead early in the third quarter, but after that, the game was all East Stroudsburg.

Brilliant sophomore quarterback Mike Terwilliger threw a 29-yard scoring strike to sophomore Tom Palubinski and hit fullback Pete Radocha with a two point conversion to tie it at 14-14. Bob Boyd kicked a 29-yard field goal for a 17-14 lead and Terwilliger hit Radocha on a swing pass for seven yards and another score and it was 24-14 before West Chester knew what hit it.

Defense hit them

Wait a minute. The Golden Rams did know what hit them. The Warriors' defense.

Chip Zawoiski caught a 10-yard touchdown pass from John Newman after Rick Jones' bobbled kickoff return attempt was covered by West Chester's Joe Bucelli at the Warriors' 26. After that, the Warriors' defense nearly ruled the field.

Aided by a roughing the passer call on Bucelli, Terwilliger hit Palubinski, playing his first game, for 29 yards and a touchdown and hit Radocha for two to tie it at 14.

West Chester came back to get a first down by Mike O'Connor on a pass from Newman at its own 49 and then moved with Andy Mills and Newman to a third and a half-yard situation at the ESSC 42. But freshman linebacker Jeff Johnson, who tied a school record with 15 tackles and seven assists, stopped Newman dead twice running and the Warriors held.

"The team was up," a beaming winning coach Denny Douds said. "But it was a different type of up. We were mentally prepared. The offense settled down and we stopped them there in the third period.

"We didn't make a lot of adjustments at the half," he continued. "We just talked about things West Chester was doing."

Players listened

Evidently the players listened. Make that definite. They did listen. And they showed what they had learned.

Taking over at their own 44, the Warriors, with the help of a 15-yard Don Ford sweep and a late hit penalty on West Chester, moved to the 12, but stalled there before Boyd's field goal gave them a 17-14 lead, with 3:32 left in the third period.

Good kick coverage on the kickoff left West Chester in a hole and only a 45-yard Don Wolf punt got them out of it. Jones took it back to the Warriors' 34 and 11 plays later, Terwilliger, who hit eight of 14 for 118 yards, hit Radocha all alone in the right flat for a touchdown and 24-14 lead with 11:40 left to play.

Grey Seamans picked up 27 yards on a pass from Terwilliger and Terwilliger kept the ball for eight and another first down to key the drive. Terwilliger's second keeper and a Harold Strunk first down at the seven set up the score.

The Rams drove back but Andy Whittington's leaping interception ended the threat at the ESSC 35. West Chester scored on the final play of the game on a Zawoiski catch of a Newman pass, but the issue had been decided.

Played inspired game

"We played like men out there," understated Douds. "The turnovers gave West Chester excellent field position. But at the half we talked about things and one of them was that we couldn't give the football to a good football team."

The opening moments mainly featured punt exchanges, but one particular exchange didn't come off. Wolf punted to Rich Rodenberger, but Rodenberger bobbled the ball and Jim Terry recovered for West Chester at the ESSC 17.

Mills singlehandedly took it to the two but after a heroic last attempt, especially on a Johnson stop of a Mills leap, Dom Herbst skirted right end from a yard out to score with 10:41 left in the half.

The Warriors came right back, starting at their own 22 two series later and marching 78 yards to score on a Terwilliger bootleg right with just 38 seconds left in the half. Actually, the drive could have covered 87 yards, since a holding call on the second play of the drive pushed the ball back to the Warriors' own 13.

But Terwilliger hit Paulubinski for 17 yards and Radocha for seven for a first down and then hit Palubinski for 16 and another near-first down situation. Fourth and inches. Strunk got it and a yard to boot.

Go after it, folks

"We wanted the kids to settle down," Douds said. "We wanted to win. We came in here to win this game. So on that play, we decided the only way to play it was to go for it. We said 'let's go after it folks.'"

They got it and it keyed the drive. A Radocha option pass to Jones got a first down at the 30 and Radocha then got 13 more to the 17 for another. Gary Laucks caught a pass at the five for yet another first down and Terwilliger took it in from there. Boyd missed his first kick in 17 tries back to last year and it was 7-6 at intermission.

"This game is a realization of what hard work can do for you," Douds said. For a guy who usually talks very quietly of success, that statement said it all.

Defense carries Mounties to 7-0 win over Slatington

SLATINGTON — At the beginning of the season, Fred Ross said his Stroudsburg team might have to live or die with its defense for a while. Saturday he was correct.

The Mounties' defense stopped several Slatington threats, including two after Stroudsburg fumbles, and posted its third straight victory with a slim 7-0 triumph over the Bulldogs.

Bob Tilwick's two-yard burst with 7:29 left in the game was the only score of the day, although Slatington appeared to have scored once and almost had possession on the Mounties' four on the preceding play, but penalties nullified both opportunities.

Stroudsburg reached the Slatington 26 on the final play of the third quarter as Jeff Wert hit tight end Mark Fetherman for 28 yards, but nothing was gained from that, either. It wasn't until the defense jumped all over the Bulldogs that the score was set up.

Three incompletes passes forced a Slatington punt from the Bulldogs' 26. With possession at the Slatington 45, Tilwick got 27 over left guard to the 18 and three plays later burst to the eight for another first down. Tilwick, who gained all 45 yards in that drive on six carries, got the only touchdown two plays later on a power play off right tackle. Rick Anglemeyer's kick ended the scoring.

"Our defense played really well," Ross said. "But we made some other mistakes with fumbles and a lot of penalties. Still, we played good defense."

The Mounties had to. After the defense put Slatington in a hole at its own 11 early in the second period, Brian Jaggard returned a punt 20 yards to the Bulldogs' 22. Tilwick, who gained 166 yards for the day, picked up eight and then 10 for a first down at the four and bolted to within inches of the goalline on the next play. But a holding call killed that drive. It was the only real threat of a sloppy first half for both teams.

The second half was the testing time for Stroudsburg's defense, a defense which has now racked up two straight shutouts and has allowed 34 points in four games.

After a lost fumble had given Slatington a break with a recovery at its own 28, Rod Baechtle fumbled on the second play after a Slatington punt and Russ Pierce recovered for Slatington at the Mounties' 39.

They gained nary an inch and punted.

Stroudsburg got it on its 33 but after a first down at the 44 by Tilwick, got sloppy again until it was faced with a fourth-and-25 situation at its own 29.

The snap went over Bill Hochrine's head and he was finally downed at the Stroudsburg four. Offsides nullified that one.

Hochrine then punted from the 34 to Slatington's 39. Ron Zellner took it on the run, cut to the right sideline and scored untouched. The apparent score went by the books on a clipping call on Pierce. The look Zellner gave him did not appear complimentary and the message was lost in the noise. "I thought our defense played well, too," said Slatington coach Dick Snell, "but when you have two penalties that killed two scores on two straight plays, there's nothing to say. Our defense was on the field all day because we couldn't move the football."

That credit has to go to the Stroudsburg defense. With more than six minutes left and plenty of time to get back in the game, Slatington was first stymied on a Fetherman sack of quarterback Bob Hawri and after a short Stroudsburg possession was killed by a penalty. Al Lewis dropped Pete Konek and then Fetherman got to Hawri again. Slatington never got the ball back.

"We're an up and down team," Ross said after the game. "I'm pleased to be 3-1 with all these young people playing. We're playing good ball, but I must hope we keep going along. We didn't play sloppy on defense."

Ross said Tilwick had "a great game. He's really come into his own this year," Ross said. "He'll be a great tailback before the year is over."

Tilwick accounted for all but four of the Mounties' net rushing total of 170 yards.

Nazareth shreds Slaters

BANGOR — Nazareth broke open a close ballgame with a pair of third quarter touchdowns Saturday night and went on to trounce winless Bangor, 31-0.

The undefeated Blue Eagles led by only 8-0 late in the third quarter when the Slaters went into punt formation. The snap from center sailed over punter Tom Letwinch's head, however, and Nazareth took over the ball at the Bangor three.

The stubborn Slaters refused to fold and stopped three running plays into the line. But on fourth down quarterback Scott Blatz went to the air and found Tom Nickles wide open in the flat for the touchdown.

Baltz then ran for the conversion to boost the Blue Eagles' lead to 16-0 and end any Bangor hopes for an upset.

Nazareth, which is now 3-0 and 2-0 in Colonial League play, struck for another touchdown before the third quarter was over when Baltz hit fullback Bill Sauerzopf for a two-yard touchdown pass.

Junior Jeff Evanko, who accounted for 157 of his team's 240 yard rushing total, added the final score in the fourth period when he went over from the one-yard line.

Evanko had set up the only score of the first half when he picked up 35 yards in an eight-play, 50-yard drive. Baltz scored the touchdown when he scrambled the final 11 yards to paydirt.

Nazareth's defense, which has not allowed a single point this season, effectively contained the Slaters' offense all night. Bangor could muster only 79 yards in total offense and never crossed the Blue Eagles' 30-yard line.

Scattene scores both Notre Dame TDs

Bears get burned by two passes

By JOE DEVIVO
Record Sports Writer

GREEN POND — According to Pleasant Valley's scouting reports, Notre Dame of Green Pond doesn't like to rely on its passing attack to win ballgames. Apparently those reports were wrong.

Notre Dame came out throwing Saturday afternoon, struck for two first quarter touchdowns, and then held on for a 15-0 Homecoming Day victory.

Although the Crusaders mis-fired on 9 of 11 pass attempts, the two pass plays which went for completions did enough damage to doom the Bears to their first defeat of the season.

Two big passes set up one touchdown and indirectly led to the other score, as the Crusaders rolled up their third straight victory this fall.

Bears' coach Tony Caracio was surprised at the Crusaders' offensive strategy and was upset with the way his team reacted to the situation.

"We scouted Notre Dame and they didn't throw as much as they did today," Caracio said. When we saw them, they passed only in the obvious situations.

"I'm very disappointed with our pass defense," he added. "We've been able to contain people on the run, but we can't seem to stop the pass. We've given up six touchdowns this season and they've all either been on passes or set up by passes."

Crusader quarterback Greg Guman wasted little time in exploiting the Bears' defensive weakness Saturday afternoon. On the Crusaders' second play from scrimmage, Guman hit Jim Holva with a quick pass in the flat and Holva raced 61 yards to the Pleasant Valley four yard line.

Two plays later, Frank Scattene, who gained 104 yards on 22 carries, cracked over right guard for the touchdown.

On Notre Dame's next play from scrimmage, Guman hit Dave Bendus with a 43-yard pass which gave the Crusaders a first down at the Bears' 13.

Although that drive fizzled when Randy Petkus came through with a fine tackle to stop Scattene on a fourth down draw play, the Crusaders got the ball back two plays later when Kevin Conklin fumbled. Scattene ran for five yards for his second score of the afternoon six plays later.

Pleasant Valley's offense was frustrated most of the day by a combination of the Crusaders' rugged defense and the Bears' own inability to move the ball.

With the exception of the first play from scrimmage, when Leroy Bonser carried, and the one carry by Conklin, Dale Heller and Don Nicholas had to do all the ball-carrying.

Although Heller did manage to gain 58 yards on 24 carries, he wasn't able to do enough by himself to save the Bears.

"I know Dale's gonna be a lot more effective if we can get some help from the other backs," Caracio said. "I know Conklin's capable of doing the job, but right now he's playing hurt."

Even though the Bears' couldn't score, it wasn't because they didn't have the opportunities. PV had three good scoring chances and failed to cash in on any of them.

The best opportunity came in the second quarter when Nicholas intercepted a Guman pass and returned it to the Crusaders' 29.

Heller and Nicholas lugged the ball down to the seven, where the Bears had first and goal. But four straight cracks by Heller into the same hole in the PV line came up short of the goal line by about six inches.

Caracio explained why all four plays went to the left side of the PV line.

"I was prepared to go right," Caracio explained. "But when we called time out, the left side of the line felt they could move Notre Dame's right side. The left side has been our most successful, so I decided to try it."

Two Jeff Merwine fumble recoveries set up the other two Bears' scoring chances. Merwine recovered a loose ball at the Crusader 44 at the start of the second half, but the Bears fumbled the ball back two plays later to end that threat.

Merwine, who played a superb game on defense until he suffered a slight knee injury, recovered another fumble in the third quarter at the Notre Dame 26.

The Bears reached the 15 before a fourth down pass was knocked away.

Although interior linemen Jim Kennedy, John Gallagher, Bob Baldwin, and Charlie Powell were particularly effective on the Crusaders' defense, coach Marty Hlay felt the whole team deserved credit for the shutout.

"It's really hard to single out anybody," Hlay said. "The line did a good job and the coverage in the secondary was excellent."

Hlay said his team, which has already won more games than it did all last season, has a much better attitude this fall.

"We just didn't have the zip last year," he said. "Now the attitude is really beautiful. These kids want to play football."

On the other side of the locker room, Caracio felt the Bears' attitude wasn't what it should have been.

"We weren't mentally ready to play football," Caracio said. "A 3-0 team should be up for a game like this. We weren't. It was a lack of mental preparedness on our part. Now our kids should be convinced they can't have a lackadaisical attitude."

Whitehall, which is now 3-1 for the season, exploded against the Cardinals' defense for 304 yards and held Pocono Mountain to just 112 yards.

The Zephyrs didn't take long to get on the scoreboard as quarterback Jeff Kurtz hit Steve Panik with a pass on the second play from scrimmage and Panik turned it into a 57-yard touchdown.

Brad Rice stung the Cardinals' specialty team for another touchdown in the first quarter when he returned a punt 66 yards for a score.

Fullback Tim Snyder helped the Zephyrs boost their lead to 27-0 with two touchdown runs in the second period.

Snyder's first score capped a seven-play, 76-yard drive on an 18-yard run. Snyder had highlighted the drive with a 36-yard jaunt off left tackle.

Snyder scored again on Whitehall's first play from scrimmage after gaining possession at the Pocono Mountain 36.

Rice scored the Zephyrs' final touchdown in the third quarter when he broke two tackles at the line of scrimmage and won a 57-yard footrace to the endzone.

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College will attempt to defeat West Chester in football for the second time in three days today in a 3 p.m. junior varsity contest at the ESSC Stadium.

Redskins' scoring spurt demolishes Giants, 49-13

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins ripped off four second period touchdowns — the last on a 52-yard punt return by Larry Jones — to overpower the New York Giants 49-13 Sunday for their third highest scoring total in team history.

Two scoring passes from Bill Kilmer to Roy Jefferson also featured the victory — the ninth straight for Washington over the Giants since 1970 and the 12th without a defeat against New York in George Allen's head coaching career.

After the Giants took a 7-0 first period lead, the Redskins began their scoring explosion when Kilmer marched them 63 yards with Larry Brown sweeping across on the first play of the second quarter.

Two New York Giant fumbles led to two more Washington touchdowns in the next 3:11.

After Ken Houston's recovery on the Giant 48, Kilmer quickly threw 31 yards to Jefferson for a go-ahead touchdown. One minute and 45 seconds later, New York's Craig Morton fumbled when sacked in his end zone and Ron McDole recovered to boost the Redskin lead to 21-7.

Rough Riders romp past Knights, 35-6

CATASAUQUA — Catasauqua is supposed to be the Colonial League's powerhouse. Pen Argyl found out Saturday night why the Rough Riders have earned that reputation.

Quarterback Barry Kennedy picked apart Pen Argyl's defense for three touchdown passes and added another score on a 15-yard run as the Rough Riders rolled to a 36-6 Colonial League victory.

Catty took charge of the contest with three minutes gone in the first period when Tackle Jim Golden recovered a Green Knight fumble at the Pen Argyl 29.

It took Kennedy only two plays to get the Rough Riders on the scoreboard when he hit Jeff Dely on a 28-yard scoring toss to make it 6-0.

Catty marched 53 yards in eight plays later in the quarter for another touchdown. Vince Rogusky helped move the ball down the field on the ground, hauled in an 18-yard Kennedy pass, and caught the two-point conversion pass for a 14-0 lead.

Neal Scheirer capped a 10-play, 76-yard drive early in the second quarter with a one-yard run for the Rough Riders' third TD.

Kennedy connected with Rogusky again later in the same period for an 88-yard bomb to boost the lead to 28-0 at the half.

BEAR HUG — Philadelphia Eagles' end Harold Carmichael (17) is brought down from behind by Chicago Bears' Doug Plank after catching a 10-yard pass from Roman Gabriel. The Bears handed the Eagles their second straight defeat, 15-13.

Bob Thomas gives Eagles swift kick where it hurts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bob Thomas kicked a 26-yard field goal, his third of the game, with eight seconds to play Sunday to give the Chicago Bears a 15-13 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles, their 10th straight victory over Philadelphia in Chicago.

Thomas, who earlier had kicked field goals of 44 and 24 yards to help put the Bears in front, got his chance after the Bears used 13 plays to move the ball from their own 30 deep into Philadelphia territory. Gary Huff, starting at quarterback for the first time this season for the Bears, put on his most brilliant passing display, connecting consistently to Cid Edwards and Walter Payton to spark the drive.

But Payton, a rookie who carried the ball 21 times for 95 yards Sunday, made the most spectacular play with a 23-yard run to the Eagles' 13 in the closing half minute to put the Bears in position to win.

Huff completed 18 of 26 passes during the contest and connected to Edwards on a seven-yard touchdown throw in the second period for the Bears' only touchdown. But Thomas missed the extra point attempt to give the Eagles their chance to go in front.

They took advantage when veteran quarterback Roman Gabriel drove his team 71 yards downfield in 14 plays, culminating in a 14-yard Alley Oop touchdown pass to lanky Harold Carmichael. The 6-foot-8 wide receiver simply outleaped 5-foot-8 defender Virgil Livers in the end zone to catch the ball with 4:09 left in the game.

Cowboys, 37-31

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — A three-yard touchdown toss from Roger Staubach to Billy Joe DuPree at 7:53 of the overtime period Sunday climaxed a wild day of big plays and gave the Dallas Cowboys a 37-31 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

First one team and then the other asserted command, but the issue was finally settled by a pass interception by Lee Roy Jordan five minutes into the sudden death and a 37-yard scoring drive that followed.

It was the first sudden death game in regular season play for both teams and the win left Dallas with a 2-0 record, tied for the early NFC East lead with Washington.

O.J. seems unstoppable as Bills blast Steelers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — O.J. Simpson rushed for 227 yards, including an 88-yard touchdown burst, to direct the Buffalo Bills to an upset 30-21 victory Sunday over the defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Simpson's 227 yards fell 23 short of the NFL single game record of 250 yards he gained in a 1973 contest with the New England Patriots. The Juice carried the ball 28 times in rushing for 100 or more yards for the 26th time in his career.

Joe Ferguson added two touchdown passes and 270-pound defensive tackle Mike Kadish lumbered 26 yards for another TD as the Bills beat the Steelers for the first time in four meetings.

The 30 points were the second highest scored against the Steelers at Three Rivers Stadium since Kansas City's 31-14 victory in 1970.

Hill wins playoff

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — "I never thought I had a chance in this tournament," smiled a happy Dave Hill. "I just came in here trying to find my golf swing."

Hill, who had missed making the cut in two of his last three starts, defeated Rik Massengale in the first hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday to capture the $20,000 first prize in the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

"I concentrate better when I'm looking for my swing," Hill added. "I feel very fortunate. 'After today, I'm going back to believing in miracles. How I won this tournament . . . evidently those other guys were staying up late.'"

Hill was one-over-par on the front side Sunday—a 37—and figured he'd had it after taking a double bogey six on the ninth hole.

"Yes, I thought the game was over," he noted. "Even on 14, there were five or six guys ahead of me. I was surprised every time I made a good shot after those first nine holes."

Four A's pitchers combine to hurl no-hitter at Angels

OAKLAND (UPI) — Four Oakland pitchers — Vida Blue, Glen Abbott, Paul Lindblad and Rolfe Fingers — combined to pitch the first multiple winning no-hit game in baseball history by more than two pitchers Sunday in a 5-0 victory for the A's over the California Angels.

The only previous combined no-hitter were a losing effort by Baltimore's Steve Barber and Stu Miller in 1967, and a winning one in 1917 by Babe Ruth and Ernie Shore of the Boston Red Sox. In that game, Shore relieved after Ruth walked the first batter and was ejected from the game. The runner was immediately thrown out trying to steal and Shore then retired 26 straight batters. Shore subsequently was credited with a perfect game.

Seaver chalks up 22nd triumph

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rusty Staub drove home two runs with a pair of sacrifice flies and the New York Mets, taking advantage of three Philadelphia errors, scored four unearned runs to stake Tom Seaver to his 22nd victory Sunday in a 5-4 decision over the Phillies.

Seaver (22-9) was knocked out in the sixth when the Phillies scored three times, but Skip Lockwood came on to pick up his second save.

The Mets scored twice in the first when Felix Millan singled and took third on Mike Vail's single. Staub's first sacrifice fly an error by Mike Rogodzinski in left field. Vail moved up on the error and scored on a single by Ed Kranepool.

Cards, 6-2

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Reggie Smith drove in three runs and St. Louis scored five unearned runs with the help of seven Pittsburgh errors as the Cardinals closed their season with a 6-2 triumph over the Eastern

Blue pitched the first five innings and picked up his 22nd win against 11 defeats. He

Reds, 7-6

CINCINNATI (UPI) Cesar Geronimo's infield hit with two out in the ninth inning scored Bill Plummer from third base with the winning run Sunday to earn the Cincinnati Reds a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

It was the 108th victory for the Reds.

Giants, 5-3

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Gary Matthews hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Gary Thomasson belted a solo shot in the eighth Sunday to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 5-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Astros, 4-2

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Cliff Johnson smashed a tie-breaking three-run homer in the eighth inning Sunday to carry the Houston Astros to a 4-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

permitted the only base-runners of the game — two on walks and one on an error by Bert Campaneris in the fourth inning.

Then Abbott worked the sixth. Lindblad the seventh and Fingers the eighth and ninth, retiring the final 12 Angels in order.

Reggie Jackson drove in three runs with two homers, giving him 36 for the season and a tie with Milwaukee's George Scott for the AL title in that department.

Aaron may be offered Brewers' job

Bosses decide to can Crandall, Quilici

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Del Crandall, who spent 3½ years trying to build the Milwaukee Brewers into a winner, got the blame Sunday because they still were a loser when he was fired prior to the team's last game of the season.

Brewer President Bud Selig refused to answer questions on why Crandall was dismissed, a move which triggered speculation that all-time home run king Henry Aaron would take the reins as manager next season.

Selig said to elaborate "would be cruel and insensitive." But he said that traditionally if the team doesn't do well the manager "gets the blame."

"Del Crandall is and always will be a good friend of mine," Selig said. "We had a very emotional—physically and verbally emotional—farewell. He's a fine man and this was a tough thing for me to do."

Aaron, asked about the vacant job, said he "can't rule out" being a manager. Selig said, "All I know is that he (Aaron) has one more year remaining on his contract as a player."

The club president said there were no candidates as yet for the job. He said General Manager Jim Baumer would begin reviewing possible successors immediately. Club officials said Crandall's successor would be named in two or three weeks.

Indians, 11-4

BOSTON (UPI) — Alan Ashby's grand slam homer highlighted a six-run fifth inning Sunday that carried the Cleveland Indians to an 11-4 victory over the playoff-bound Boston Red Sox.

Boston, having clinched the American League's East Division title Saturday, played the game with many second-stringers.

With the Red Sox leading 4-2 in the fifth, John Lowenstein and Jack Brohamer hit back-to-back singles. A sacrifice fly by Tommy Smith drove home the first Cleveland run and after Boog Powell's single, Boston loser Dick Pole walked Oscar Gamble and Joe Lis to force in a run and Ashby followed with his first major league grand slam.

Several hundred fans streamed onto the field following the final out in a celebration reminiscent of 1967 when the Red Sox won the AL pennant.

Yanks split

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Dempsey scored the winning run on an error following an unsuccessful squeeze to cap a three-run ninth inning that gave New York a 3-2 victory and a doubleheader split with Baltimore Sunday after the Orioles' Jim Palmer hurled a 3-0 victory in the opener, tying Catfish Hunter for most victories in the majors with 23.

Trailing 2-0 entering the ninth in the nightcap, consecutive singles by Roy White and Thurman Munson plus a walk to Dempsey loaded the bases. Reliever Dyer Miller then gave up a two-run single to Terry Whitfield. Pinch hitter Rich Coggins was given a squeeze sign but failed to connect and Dempsey was hung up between third and home. In the ensuing run-down, Miller dropped the ball allowing Dempsey to score.

In the opener, Palmer, bidding for his second Cy Young award in three years, scattered eight hits, struck out four and didn't issue a walk in raising his shutout total to 10 and lowering his league-leading ERA to 2.09.

White Sox, 6-4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Bucky Dent scored on a wild pitch in the 10th inning and Pat Kelly drove in another run as the Chicago White Sox snapped a 4-4 tie and scored a 6-4 win over Minnesota Sunday in the Twins' final game under manager Frank Quilici.

Rangers, 3-1

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Rookie right-hander Stan Perzanowski earned his third victory of the season Sunday and Jim Spencer singled home Mike Hargrove to cap a two-run Texas rally in the first inning that gave the Rangers a 3-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Perzanowski (3-3) carried a shutout into the ninth before the Royals scored their run and Steve Foucault finished the game.

Brewers, 7-0

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Larry Anderson fired a five-hitter for his first major league victory Sunday to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 7-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Manager Del Crandall, fired two hours before the game, was not in uniform as coach Harvey Kuenn ran the club.

THE TIME HAS COME TO PUT PRICE & PRIDE TOGETHER AGAIN.

Price & Pride.
Side by side.
Shoulder to shoulder, we worked together at A&P for over 100 years.
That's what made the Great A&P great.
Then Blooey!
The grocery business changed.
And Pride was forced to take a back seat.
He suffered quietly.
And A&P suffered, too.
Things weren't always so great at the Great A&P.
We know it.
You know it.
Price without Pride is no bargain.
The time has come to put Price & Pride together again.

If we can't do it, nobody can.
